Republicans Take Over Rule of Illinois Today

AVIATION CHIEFS OUTLINE GOALS FOR CITY IN 1941

Development of Air Center Sought.

What does Chicago need most to go ahead in 1941? What does your business need to go ahead? What can you do to help Chicago? What can Chicago do to help you? Leaders in Chicago business and public life are being asked these questions. The story below is the first of a series giving the answers.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Aviation leaders yesterday outlined eight projects which they consider of first importance in helping Chicago to forge ahead as an air center during 1941.

The leaders—manufacturers, air line presidents, engineers, and operators of flying schools—said accomplishment of the following goals would be of far-reaching benefit to the city and the industry:

1. Finish the Chicago airport enlargement program, including removal of railroad tracks and installation of new lighting facilities. [This program, progressing rapidly, will be completed this year.]

New Terminal Urged.

2. Build the proposed new $1,813,000 airport terminal building to provide Chicago and the eight air lines serving the city with a modern depot commensurate in capacity and utility with existing air business and future expansion.

3. Begin a study of aviation fields in the metropolitan area as a basis for a long term plan for alternate and multiple commercial airports for private flying—which soon will be comparable in importance to motoring and will create similar traffic problems—and for airport manufacturing facilities, hitherto neglected.

4. Negotiate airport leases on modern, long range schedules, with terms favorable to those offered by other large cities, particularly New York, Los Angeles, and Kansas City.

More Headquarters Sought.

5. Renew efforts to attract headquarters of air line operators to Chicago, which geographically and economically is the logical location for such offices. Altho eight air lines are serving Chicagoans only one, United Air Lines, has national headquarters here.

6. Build a high speed highway from the loop to the airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue. This could be a unit in a city-wide plan of superhighways.

7. Adopt a fostering attitude toward aviation, so airplane and engine manufacturers and air line operators can proceed with assurance on building programs, including new hangars at Chicago airport and new factory plants for this region.

8. Create a civic agency to provide a channel for the peaceful settlement of labor relations problems.

Need of Coöperation Told.

"An important point is the understanding that prosperity depends upon the sweat and work and 'I Will' of all," said W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines.

"It's the old 'One for all and all for one' idea. What's good for Chicago is good for the least important citizen as well as the most important one. Building a city is like building a business. Citizens must pull together.

"I firmly believe in Chicago's future. I believe this city can and will be as important in the air transportation industry as it is in the railroad industry. We have established our offices here and are about to proceed with construction of another $400,000 office building and a $600,000 hangar."

Skilled Workers Required.

Harold S. Vance, chairman of the board of the Studebaker corporation, which soon will construct a Chicago plant to turn out parts for 1,700 to 1,800 horse power aviation motors, added a few points to the general list. He suggested that city officials could:

Assist in supplying some of the 4,000 skilled machine tool workers and die and pattern makers who will be needed in the new plant.

Expedite the transfer of property on which the company already has an option, when the details of purchase have been completed. The site has not been announced.

THRONG TO SEE DWIGHT GREEN'S INAUGURATION

Only One Democrat to Be Sworn In.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 12.—Republicans will resume control of the government of Illinois tomorrow—after eight years of Democratic management—with the inauguration of Dwight H. Green, 44 year old Chicago lawyer, as governor, and the induction of four other members of the party into state offices. The ceremonies will take place in the spacious drill hall of the new armory before an audience of 6,000.

Only one Democrat—Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes—will take the oath of office. Hughes, because of his personal popularity and the influence of the office he has held for two terms, was the sole Democrat to slide thru under the G. O. P. landslide last Nov. 5.

Others Who Take Office.

Taking office with the governor will be these Republicans: Hugh W. Cross, Jerseyville, lieutenant governor; George F. Barrett, Chicago, attorney general; Arthur C. Lueder, Chicago, auditor of public accounts, and Warren Wright, Springfield, state treasurer.

Green becomes either the 30th or the 32d governor of Illinois, depending on whether the three terms of Richard J. Oglesby are considered as separate administrations, or as one. Oglesby's first administration began in 1865, at the close of the civil war. He served during the reconstruction period, until 1869. He served again for a year in 1873, and for a second four year term from 1885 to 1889.

Green, his wife, and their young daughters, Nancy, 13 years old, and Gloria, 9, arrived in the capital tonight aboard a special train jammed with political figures and inaugural visitors. Crowds cheered as the family left their car. They will occupy a hotel suite for a few days before moving into the executive mansion, which is to be vacated by Gov. John Stelle and Mrs. Stelle tomorrow.

[Green maintained silence on his choices for cabinet posts when he left Chicago yesterday on his way to Springfield. Details on page 7.]

Will Ride Together.

Green and Stelle will occupy the first car in the pre-inaugural parade tomorrow morning. The procession will wind thru the Springfield business district; around the Sangamon county court house, which was the state capitol when Abraham Lincoln sat in the legislature, and thence to the armory, where Chief Justice Walter T. Gunn of the Supreme court will administer the oaths of office to the incoming officials.

Custom requires that Green sit at Stelle's left for the ride to the armory, but on the return trip to the mansion, their positions will be reversed. The same is true of the other officials, retiring and incoming.

Hundreds of sections of draped bunting decorate the great hall of the armory. By design or coincidence, the protective covering over the polished floor is colored green.

Chairr Fill Hall.

Chairs to the number of 2,750 stand in ranks on the main floor; 2,550 others are in the permanent gallery setup, and on the stage, in front of a rich gold curtain, are 238 places for the official inaugural party, their wives, and party dignitaries. These 238 chairs are in addition to the platform space reserved for the 115 piece University of Illinois band, whose music has been an inaugural feature for many years.

When the ceremonies have been concluded, workmen will remove the chairs and floor covering and prepare the armory for the inaugural ball, which will follow the governor's reception in the mansion tomorrow night. Such a vast number of tickets for the ball have been distributed that the committee decided today to transmit the music of Wayne King and Eddy Duchin from the armory across the street to the state house, where the overflow crowd will dance in the long corridors on the first and second floors.

Big U. S. Liner Goes Aground; 750 on Board

Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 12 [Special].—Caught by a heavy ground swell five miles north of Palm Beach, the United States liner Manhattan was carried aground tonight. Lying broadside to the beach, three miles off Lake Worth inlet with her bow afloat, the ship was not in any immediate danger.

Location of liner's grounding.

There was no explanation of why the Manhattan was so close to shore, but shipping men said that most southbound vessels came as close in as possible to avoid bucking the swift gulf stream.

Can Pull Vessel Free.

Capt. G. V. Richardson, master of the liner, told Boatswain Earl Wallace, commander of the Coast Guard's Peanut Island station, that the ship only needed to be pulled free to continue her voyage to California with about 250 cruise passengers and a crew of 500.

Wallace and a crew went out in a small boat to the trapped liner. Wallace said he did not believe the ship was damaged, but could not be certain until it was refloated.

Reached on patrol duty off Miami, the cutter Mojave was summoned along with the Vigilante from Port Pierce. The ship went aground at 8 p. m. Chicago time.

Launched in 1931.

The weather here is clear and the sea calm except for the swell. It was not believed the swell would force the liner harder aground.

The Manhattan, which was launched Dec. 5, 1931, cost $10,000,000. She has a gross weight of 24,000 tons, is 668 feet long, and draws 33 feet of water. Until the liner America was launched the Manhattan was the largest passenger ship ever built in the United States. The Manhattan sailed on her maiden voyage to Europe on Aug. 10, 1932. The vessel sailed from New York late Friday night.

FIRE WRECKS HANGAR OF UNITED AIR LINES; LOSS PUT AT $300,000

Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 12 (AP).—Fire destroyed United Air Lines' hangar at the Municipal airport tonight, two large passenger planes, and all mechanical and repair equipment. Damage was estimated at $300,000.

The planes destroyed were a 10 passenger Boeing 247-B and a 21 passenger Douglas DC3. Airline officials said they were valued at $155,000.

Lost along with the hangar, the planes, and shop equipment, was a commissary, built last year at a cost of $10,000.

The fire fed by gasoline, spread so quickly there was no time for salvage. The cause was not learned. An 820 gallon gasoline tank truck, exploding as the flames reached its sides, added fuel to the blaze, as did gasoline of the planes themselves, and of private cars parked nearby.

4 Blocks of Homes Burn.

New York, Jan. 12 (AP).—Four square blocks of summer homes in the Arverne section of Queens were leveled early today by a five-alarm fire that started in construction equipment where the Long Island railroad is being elevated to eliminate grade crossings. The blaze sent showers of sparks over the area, and high winds fanned the flames.

More than 50 fire companies fought the fire. Most of the homes were unoccupied. About 100 families were driven from their homes on the fringe of the burning area. No one was injured so far as the police could ascertain.

Report Greeks Seize Tepeleni from Italians

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Jan. 12 (AP).—The capture by Greek soldiers of the mountain village of Tepeleni, which the Greeks claimed meant a definite break of the whole Italian front in central Albania, was reported tonight in Jugo-Slav border advices.

[There was no confirmation of the report in Athens, altho the town's capture had been expected.]

The frontier reports said Tepeleni fell with hardly any Fascist resistance and that the main Italian army was fleeing to the mountains northwest of the town.

Two Pronged Offensive.

The fall of Tepeleni, if verified, means the Greeks have achieved the object of a two pronged offensive against Tepeleni and Klisura, 10 miles eastward of Tepeleni. Klisura was captured Friday by Greek forces.

[Tepeleni is 55 miles south of the important Fascist port of Valona, on the Adriatic sea, and is connected with that city by a highway built by the Italians during the world war.]

Strafe Fleeing Italians.

ATHENS, Jan. 12 (AP).—Italian troops driven out of Klisura continued their northward retreat tonight with the Greeks in close pursuit, it was reported here. There was no confirmation that the Greeks had captured Tepeleni.

Reports from the Albanian front said Greek planes again machine gunned the fleeing Italian column.

In the coastal sector, the Greeks made further advances toward Valona despite desperate Fascist resistance, it was said. The government spokesman gave this picture of the fighting:

"Despite difficulties of terrain, our units continued their attacks successfully and threw back the enemy from fortified positions which he was holding after extremely rapid action which took the Italians by surprise. The Italian retreat was so quick the enemy had no time to take away materials and suffered heavy losses, leaving 40 dead."

16 South African Flyers Killed; Plane Hits Peak

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, Jan. 13, Monday (AP).—Sixteen members of the South African air force were killed when their plane crashed near Mbeya, Tanganyika, it was announced officially today. It was believed the pilot lost his way in a thick mist and crashed into a mountainside.

PROTESTS MOUNT; WHEELER WARNS OF DICTATORSHIP

Protests mounted yesterday against President Roosevelt's bill for increased powers and aid to Great Britain. At the same time the head of the leading war interventionist organization in the country frankly declared that its purpose was to help the British even at the risk of war. The developments:

1. Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] charged in radio speeches in Washington, D. C., that the Roosevelt bill, if passed, means war and an American dictatorship.

2. Senator Henrik Shipstead [R., Minn.] warned in a message from Washington that the nation is now at the crossroads so far as war is concerned and riddled the assertion that the United States cannot defend itself and depends upon Britain for safety.

3. Officials of the Church League of America, in Chicago, called upon clergymen to oppose granting the President powers that were termed dictatorial, and branded the bill probably the most dangerous ever put forward as an administration measure.

4. Alf M. Landon in Topeka, Kas., said that President Roosevelt would not have been elected if he had disclosed his views before the election, and rebuked Wendell L. Willkie for indorsing the bill.

5. Ernest W. Gibson, new national chairman of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, frankly admitted in New York that his organization knows it is risking sending the nation to war.

WHEELER'S WARNING

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12 [Special].—Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] warned in two radio addresses today that President Roosevelt's aid to Britain bill means war and the establishment of an American dictatorship.

Senator Wheeler, an outstanding noninterventionist, said in an American Forum of the Air speech, broadcast tonight by the Mutual Broadcasting system:

"If the American people want a dictatorship—if they want a totalitarian form of government—and if they want war—this bill should be steamrollered thru congress, as is the wont of the President.

"Approval Means War."

"Approval of this legislation means war, open and complete warfare. Therefore I ask the American people before they supinely accept it, was the last war worth while?

"This bill is the New Deal's Triple A foreign policy—plow under every fourth American boy."

The senator replied to President Roosevelt's assertion that the British would repay the United States. "The repayment," said Senator Wheeler, "probably will come in cries of 'Uncle Shylock.'

"Our boys will be returned—returned in caskets, maybe."

Senator Wheeler said the American people have never been asked or com-

AMERICA FIRST GROUP URGES WAR AID BILL FOES TO JOIN PROTEST

Mrs. Janet Ayer Fairbank, vice chairman of the Chicago chapter of the America First committee, urged a united protest yesterday against President Roosevelt's aid to Britain bill. She asked that all who are interested in keeping the United States out of war send their names and addresses to the Chicago chapter's headquarters at 80 East Jackson boulevard, Room 303. The names will then be sent to the congressman of the district in which each person lives, attached to a protest against the bill.

"The America First committee," Mrs. Fairbank said, "urges all good citizens, regardless of party or differences of opinion on war, to join together to save our republican form of government and preserve the powers given to congress by the constitution of the United States. Urge your friends to do likewise. This is a critical moment, when all we hold dear and all that makes for our happiness and prosperity is at stake."

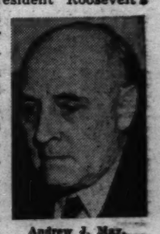
SENATORS MAP FIGHT TO REVISE WAR AID BILL

Feel It's Time to Halt Dictator Trend.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—Senate opponents of President Roosevelt's war powers bill are forming their lines for a momentous battle in which they will take the position that the hour is at hand for congress and the people to choose between peace and war and between dictatorship and the American form of government.



Andrew J. May.

Opposition leaders assert that granting of Mr. Roosevelt's request for unlimited power over the nation's armament and material resources, to be used for the aid of any favored belligerent on such terms as he might devise, would plunge the United States into war.

Even tho it should not result in immediate full participation in the war, with men and ships as well as material resources, resistance in congress would be at an end and Mr. Roosevelt could take the final step at will, according to the opposition.

Main Battle in Senate.

The decisive battle is expected to be fought in the senate, where a move already is under way to revise and modify the bill. Opposition in the house is considered less effective, because under the rules there, a bare majority can force it thru that body by steamroller methods before opposition from the country has time to make itself felt. In the senate, where there is unlimited debate, the opposition is counting upon an uprising of popular indignation such as the tidal wave of condemnation which helped defeat Mr. Roosevelt's scheme to pack the Supreme court in 1937.

The first test of house sentiment on the bill will come tomorrow when Representative Andrew J. May [D., Ky.], chairman of the military affairs committee, will demand that the measure be transferred to his committee from the foreign affairs committee, to which it was referred by Speaker Sam Rayburn. May's motion is expected to result in a roll call vote.

Two Hearings Scheduled.

Representative Sol Bloom, [D., N. Y.], chairman of the foreign affairs committee, professes confidence that May's motion will be defeated and has scheduled hearings on the bill for Tuesday.

The senate foreign relations committee will take up the bill on Wednesday and is expected to begin hearings on Thursday.

Present indications are that the bill will be rewritten and drastically modified by the senate. There is general agreement that legislation to increase aid to Great Britain and the other countries fighting the axis powers will be passed; in fact, there is virtually no opposition to all possible material aid to Britain within two limitations: [1] That the United States shall not become a co-belligerent, and [2] That the army and navy shall not be stripped of the minimum requirements of this country's own defense.

Amendments Already Offered.

With a view to confining President Roosevelt's arms lending program within these limitations, the following amendments already have been proposed in the senate:

1. A prohibition against giving away arms and other war supplies, which Mr. Roosevelt could do under the bill as submitted.

2. A provision requiring Great Britain to put up security for loans of war munitions and supplies. Walter F. George [D., Ga.], chairman of the foreign relations committee, favors such a restriction. Suggested types of collateral include shares in the vast British rubber and tin holdings in the far east and British investments in the United States. According to a report just released by the board of governors of the federal reserve system, the British have more than 5 billion dollars' worth of uncommitted assets in this country, including bank balances and gold.

3. A prohibition against the transfer of any warships, airplanes, guns, or other defense equipment now posessed or hereafter acquired by the army and navy. Even this provision would not prevent Mr. Roosevelt from deferring deliveries on army and navy orders in order to release aircraft and other equipment to the British.

4. Specification of the nations which Mr. Roosevelt might assist by loans of arms and war supplies. If Great Britain, Greece, and China are to be aided, congress should say so, according to the proponents of this amendment. If other countries should enter the war against axis powers, it would be a simple matter to amend the law. Proponents of this amendment suggest that Mr. Roosevelt, under the present bill, could employ billions of dollars in American resources to bring Dictator Josef Stalin of soviet Russia into the war against Germany, or otherwise appease him.

Would Not Open Ports.

5. A prohibition against the opening of American ports for the fitting out or repairing of belligerent warships, as proposed by the bill. International law recognizes such use of neutral ports as an act of war.

6. A specific prohibition against the use of American ships, in convoys or otherwise, to transport war munitions to Great Britain. Noninterventionists contend that Mr. Roosevelt could exercise such power under the sweeping provisions of the bill.

7. A time limitation on the powers vested in the President, either one or two years.

More than half of the present and prospective members of the foreign relations committee are known to favor restrictive amendments.

Van Nuys Favors Restrictions.

Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.], a committee member who expressed himself with respect to the bill for the first time today, said he would support an amendment requiring the British to put up collateral for loans and predicted that a majority of the committee would favor it.

Senator Van Nuys also said he would favor various other amendments "to tone down the bill," including a prohibition against the transfer of warships, aircraft and other army and navy property to the British. He said he would demand that Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox be called as a witness, because of his recent statement that the navy could spare no more destroyers for Britain.

Will Dig Into Resources.

The Indiana senator also disclosed that members of the committee will demand that Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau be called to testify concerning British financial resources. Morgenthau recently received a detailed "balance sheet" from Sir Frederick Phillips, undersecretary of the British treasury.

One of the two vacancies on the foreign relations committee is expected to go to Senator Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.] and his vote may be decisive on many questions in the closely divided 23 member committee. Senator Lucas, a consistent supporter of the administration's foreign policy, has made no comment for publication on the new war powers bill. He is known to favor its objectives, however, with reservations as to the amendments that will be offered.

MARSHALL CALLS ON CITIZENRY TO HALT WAR BILL

New York, Jan. 12 [Special].—Labeling the "lend lease" bill before congress an "astounding proposal" calculated to give President Roosevelt the "sole war making authority and power," Verne Marshall, chairman of the No Foreign War Committee, tonight called on the people of the country—"housewives, farmers, workers, small business men"—to demand of their representatives in Washington that they "give not one whit more of authority to the President."

If congress decides to pass the bill, Marshall said, "your liberties and mine are on their way to oblivion."

"That bill," Marshall went on, "appears to be a bid for exactly such totalitarian and dictatorial authority as incenses Mr. Roosevelt when he speaks so vehemently against its exercise by leaders of foreign governments."

Marshall spoke from the local studios of station WOR, eastern outlet of the Mutual Broadcasting System, instead of from the Lost Battalion hall in Queensborough, as originally planned, because he said he had learned an attempt would be made to disorganize the scheduled meeting.

PROTESTS RISING AGAINST BILL FOR ALL-OUT WAR AID

Wheeler Warns It Means Dictatorship.

"Never before," he continued, "has the congress of the United States been asked by any President to violate international law. . . . Never before has the congress coldly and flatly been asked to abdicate."

Charges British Propaganda.

John T. Flynn, national chairman of the Keep America Out of War Congress, speaking on the same program, ridiculed the belief that Hitler can invade America. He said the invasion fear is the work of British propagandists.

Senator Josh Lee [D., Okla.] and Herbert Agar, Louisville, Ky., editor, upheld the bill.

Senator Wheeler spoke here earlier on the University of Chicago Round Table radio program.

"If you follow the President's program," he said, "it means in my judgment that you are not only going to denude the army and the navy, you are giving him dictatorial powers. I am opposed to giving him a blank check, and I am opposed to giving him dictatorial powers, and I am opposed to this country's going into the war to help England."

Ralph Ingersoll, New York editor, took issue with the senator.

"With American help for England," he said, "with more bombing planes and more bombs, we can cause enough damage to the industrial system in Germany to break up that empire which is just beginning to set. It is like concrete that has just been poured."

SHIPSTEAD'S STAND

Senator Henrik Shipstead [R., Minn.] repudiated the suggestion that the United States, the most powerful nation in the world, cannot defend itself and is dependent upon England for its safety.

Senator Shipstead, a member of the foreign relations committee, expressed his views in a letter to a group of Minneapolis and St. Paul interventionists who had protested his opposition to the foreign policy of the Roosevelt administration.

"If we have fallen to such a low estate—if we have reached a point where we must ask another nation to do our fighting for us—then we are unworthy of the freedom we possess," Shipstead wrote.

"However, if it be true that Britain is fighting our battle, then this country should, in all honesty, declare war on Germany and her allies."

Lashes Roosevelt Bill.

Expressing opposition to President Roosevelt's new war powers bill, the Minnesota senator declared:

"We have now before congress a bill which, if passed, will become a blank check upon the entire resources of our country to guarantee the military victory of one of the belligerents. If we take that fateful step, is it not logical to believe that we must take another and become active participants in an undeclared war, or in a war declared upon us by one or more of the belligerents?"

This country now stands, Senator Shipstead declared, at the crossroads that lead to foreign wars or retention of the traditional American policy, just as it stood in 1917. The country is faced with this decision, he said.

"I am opposed to sending our young men to die on the battlefields of Europe, Asia, or Africa. I am opposed to taking any step which may lead to that tragic result," he said.

The senator said that he favored a strong army, navy and air force to defend the Monroe doctrine on the Western continent, however.

Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.] told reporters he would fight the bill.

"Make no mistake about it," he said. "This is a last ditch fight. This is our last fight before the question of war itself is raised. If we lose it, war is almost inevitable."

Willkie's View—and Landon's

New York, Jan. 12 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie declared today he favored "with modification" President Roosevelt's "lend-lease" arms bill, and announced he would fly soon to England for a private survey of the international situation.

He asserted the bill should grant powers to the President "for a fixed term, not too far in the future" and that congress should not be "harried" in its passage.

The defeated Republican Presidential candidate expressed the belief the nation faced an emergency under which "extraordinary powers must be granted to the elected executive."

Concerning his trip abroad, Willkie made it clear that he would go solely as a private citizen, and said he sought personal contact with the situation abroad "just as I did when I was practicing law and wanted to know the facts of a case."

Inferentially, Willkie took exception to Alf M. Landon's recent statement on British-American relations with the words: "I refute the statement that our national security is not involved in a British defeat. The difference between a British defeat or victory is not only military but economic."

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 12 (AP).—Alf M. Landon, commenting on Wendell Willkie's modified approval of President Roosevelt's "lend-lease" arms bill, tonight said "if Mr. Willkie had revealed that to be his position before the Republican national convention he would not have been nominated."

Willkie's position is "essentially the same as Mr. Roosevelt's," the 1936 Republican Presidential nominee said. "That is, we must get into the war if necessary to help England win.

"If Mr. Roosevelt had revealed that to be his position before the election, he would not have been reëlected."

Landon was head of the Kansas delegation at the G. O. P. national convention in Philadelphia last June and helped swing the state's 18 votes to Willkie on a crucial ballot.

The former Kansas governor said in a speech at Tulsa last night the President had "committed himself to a war policy" and urged that American ships be kept out of war zones.

BRITAIN WANTS U. S. MANPOWER, SAYS VAN ZANDT

Warns Material Aid Won't Be Sufficient

Boston, Mass., Jan. 12 (AP).]—Dispatch of an American expeditionary force abroad "within the next two years" was forecast today by Representative James E. Van Zandt [R., Pa.], former national commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars, who said what England wants most is men.

"There's no use kidding ourselves," he told 600 Massachusetts V. F. W. members.

Asserting that the axis powers outnumber Great Britain and her allies in man power by 1,500,000 men, Van Zandt asked:

"Where are the men coming from to make up the difference? From the United States? There's no doubt about it."

He indicated he believed that a new A. E. F. probably will be sent to Africa or the Balkans, as other ports are closed on the European continent.

Materials Not Enough.

"England knows and the axis powers know," said Van Zandt, "that whatever ships, planes, and munitions we send to aid Great Britain, they will not be sufficient to change conditions. What England wants most is man power. Her armies, including all her colonial troops, do not match the man power of the Axis armies.

"And tho she has been careful not to mention it, men are what she wants and most needs."

Demands War Aims Be Told.

"I strongly recommend aid to Great Britain, but as a congressman I insist that the United States should first demand of England just what her war aims are. It is possible that Britain might desire to carry on a prolonged war in order to feel that her position among her European neighbors be made secure, a war which would go beyond our conception of preserving democracy."

Dies of Bullet Wound After Quarrel in Tavern

Peter Nawrot, 52 years old, 1943 Evergreen avenue, a window washer, died last night in St. Elizabeth's hospital after he had been shot by August Rybandt, 46, during a quarrel in a tavern at 2038 North avenue. Rybandt, who said he lives at the headquarters of Pulaski Post of the American Legion at 1558 North Hoyne avenue, surrendered to North avenue police. He said he and Nawrot, who was sergeant of arms at the Legion post, had quarreled.

CHICAGOAN IN FLYING CORPS GRADUATES AS BOMBING INSTRUCTOR

A Chicagoan, Walter Perkins, 27 years old, 1020 Lawrence avenue, was among 55 flying cadets graduated Saturday as the second class to leave the nation's first bombardier instructors' school at Lowry field, Denver, Colo. Under war department regulations cadets must serve a minimum of nine months before being given commissions as second lieutenants and assigned to duty with bombardment groups at other army air schools thruout the country. Perkins attended Senn High school and Michigan State college.

A. F. OF L. WARNS IT WILL INSIST ON RIGHT TO STRIKE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12 (AP).—The American Federation of Labor told congress today that its members were ready to "make sacrifices" for national defense, but would oppose any attempt to curtail labor's "right to strike."

"It would be suicidal for us, in our haste to build an invulnerable military defense of our country, to abandon democracy in the process," the federation said.

The A. F. of L. said it would not oppose "reasonable reductions" in relief appropriations since defense expansion was providing jobs "at such a rapid pace that it appears likely the number of unemployed will be reduced sharply by the end of the year." It estimated that there were now 8,000,000 unemployed.

It said it would oppose any move to "impair" present federal labor laws, but proposed amendments to the labor relations act as "safeguards" against "possible future maladministration."

CHURCH LEAGUE PROTESTS WAR AID DICTATORSHIP

Loesch Committee Calls for Curb on F. D. R.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Officers of the Church League of America, 53 West Jackson boulevard, issued a strong statement of protest yesterday in the league's name against the President's aid-to-Britain bill. The statement was signed by Frank J. Loesch, the league's general chairman, from whose apartment in the Drake hotel it was issued; George W. Robnett, secretary, and Dr. Almer M. Pennewell of St. John's Methodist church, the league's clergy chairman.

Dr. A. M. Pennewell.

These leaders termed the bill dictatorial and urged clergymen to demand that congress refuse to grant the President's bid for unlimited power.

Robnett said copies of the statement will be forwarded to the thousands of clergymen on the league's lists.

Quote Bishop's Protest.

The statement cited the recent statement of Bishop Frank E. Wilson of Eau Claire, Wis., vice chairman of the league, who termed the bill "preposterous," and declared the league "knew the clergy of the country to be stunned and aroused by the bill."

"So, again," the statement said, "the church league acts to aid these pastors lay before congress their preponderant conviction that this bill is probably the most dangerous proposal to the United States ever to have achieved the status of an administration bill.

"We, as a committee hastily called to meet the emergency this bill creates, gravely point out some of the possible meanings to the freedom of the American pulpit and to the church press. We wish solemnly to recall that during recent years churches have repudiated the war system. We point out that at least one of the more influential religious journals, the Christian Century, has anticipated the effect of President Roosevelt's defense bill and has warned the churches that the President would do his utmost to involve this country in war.

Protest Lack of Voice.

"This journal further adds that the people of the nation, neither by ballot nor thru their duly elected representatives in congress will have voice in the determination of the fateful decision.

"The Church League of America hates Hitlerism, but it shuns any attempt of congress to appease President Roosevelt by conferring Hitlerist powers on him by abdicating its constitutional authority. We do not oppose all possible aid to Great Britain and her allies, but we would safeguard the way in which that aid is extended thru proper congressional action. We ask the congress to retain those powers which the President, by this bill, seeks to have vested in himself alone, a doctrine abhorrent to the American people.

"We call for prayer and action against this tragic bill. Write or telegraph to the members of your state's delegation in congress. The time is short. Act now."

AID ALLIES GROUP STARTS TALKING OF GOING TO WAR

New York, Jan. 12 (AP).—Former Senator Ernest W. Gibson of Vermont, new national chairman of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, defined the committee's objective today as all possible material aid to the allies—but he frankly declared it involved the risk of going to war.

Ernest W. Gibson.

In his first press conference since succeeding William Allen White, Emporia, Kas., editor, as the committee's leader, Gibson asserted "this is no time for a faint heart." White resigned recently and charged the committee's membership included many war mongers. Last night the Rt. Rev. Frank E. Wilson, D. D., bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Eau Claire, Wis., withdrew permission for the committee to use his name on its letterhead.

"As I see it," the 39 year old Gibson said, "the only chance the democracies have for peace is to keep those fighting for democracy supplied now, and if that isn't sufficient, then it looks like we will get into the war."

STIMSON NAMES A COMMITTEE ON BOMB SHELTERS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—Septuagenarian Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson today announced creation of a committee of seven which will study problems pertaining to air raid bomb shelters, water supply, and power, among others.

Stimson asked Walter D. Binger of the American Society of Civil Engineers to be chairman. Other members, each representing a national engineering organization, are W. H. Carrier, Harry E. Jordan, A. B. Ray, Abel Wolman, James L. Walsh, and Scott Turner. Maj. Eugene W. Ridings of the war department general staff was designated to act as the military contact member with the group.

KILLED BY FALL FROM SLED.

Dubuque, Ia., Jan. 12 [Special].—Joseph Giunta, 9 years old, died last night of injuries received when he fell from his sled while coasting down a hill.

PRESIDENT ACTS TO END DELAYS IN DEFENSE HOUSING

Hyde Park, N. Y., Jan. 12 (AP).—President Roosevelt created a new government division of defense housing coordination today to help eliminate delays. He appointed Charles Palmer of Atlanta, Ga., to the post of coordinator of the division, which is a part of the office of emergency management in the White House executive office.

Defense housing problems have been handled by a unit in the commission, of which Palmer has been in charge. White House officials said that lack of authority had caused delays.

In effect, Mr. Roosevelt has shifted the work from the defense commission to an agency under his immediate supervision. The executive order establishing the division of defense housing coördination provides that Palmer shall work with other government housing agencies, recommend coördinated programs, and facilitate their execution thru private housing groups.

2 French Officers Desert in Italian Plane, Report

New York, Jan. 12 (AP).—The British Broadcasting corporation said today two French air force officers had deserted to the "Free French" forces of Gen. Charles de Gaulle in an airplane of the Italian peace commission. The Frenchmen were reported to have left Oran, Algeria, on Dec. 3 and flown to North Africa.

4 MORE BRITISH WARSHIPS HIT, ITALIANS CLAIM

Assert Cruiser 'Sinking' After Torpedo Raid.

ROME, Jan. 12 (AP).—In the continuing German-Italian offensive against Britain's naval might in the Mediterranean, the Italian high command today reported that four more British warships—two cruisers and two destroyers—had been hit.

One of two Italian torpedo boats which attacked an imposing array of British warships was sunk, the Italians said, but their torpedoes left a cruiser in a "sinking" condition and two destroyers with fires aboard.

The second of the two cruisers reported hit was the fifth British warship struck from the air in two days and was marked up as a German score. It was said to have been one of Britain's 9,100 ton Birmingham class.

Two Warship Groups Attacked.

"Units of the German air corps," the communique said, "continuing the brilliant action begun yesterday, carried out a scouting offensive against English squadrons. Two important groups of warships were attacked. One cruiser of the Birmingham type was hit for certain with a heavy bomb."

[The German high command said "one cruiser and several other warships suffered heavy bomb hits" during a "repeat attack on a British flotilla in the Mediterranean."]

Two aircraft carriers, a cruiser, and a destroyer were reported hit either by bombs or aerial torpedoes in the earlier plane attack, delivered Friday by Italian and German craft in the Sicilian channel.

The battle between surface forces was placed Friday in the Straits of Sicily. The communique said it began when a patrol of two torpedo boats "sighted an important enemy naval formation composed of numerous surface units" at dawn.

Report Crew Is Saved.

It said the torpedo boats "attacked the center of the line determinedly, hitting with two torpedoes one cruiser, later seen sinking."

"A hot fight followed," it continued, "between enemy destroyers supported by cruisers and our torpedo boats, which engaged them in long, intense firing during which fires were visible aboard two enemy destroyers.

"One of our torpedo boats was sunk. The other went immediately to the scene of the sinking to save the crew."

A new overnight British air raid on the northern Italian industrial city of Turin and also Savigliano was acknowledged. At Turin, it was said, "some civilian factories were hit," three persons were killed and four wounden; at Savigliano, "a military hospital, some dwellings, and a parochial church" were damaged but there were no casualties.

[In London, the British air ministry announced that a small force of R. A. F. bombers attacked Turin and "scored direct hits on the royal arsenal."]

FRENCH RAILWAY SCHEDULES CUT; LACK FUEL, OIL

VICHY, France, Jan. 12 (AP).—Restricted passenger train schedules, effective Wednesday, were announced tonight because of a shortage of coal and lubricants. It was explained that available supplies must be conserved for indispensable freight traffic.

Reports reaching Vichy from Paris said that inhabitants of the Nazi occupied French capital have been restricted to registration at one butcher shop under a new rationing law aimed at increasing Parisians' food supplies.

Officials, it was said, have promised to try to distribute meat as equally as possible among all shops.

SEEK WHITE'S AID IN AMERICA FIRST ANTI-WAR FIGHT

Gen. Wood Asks Him to Oppose F. D. R. Bill.

Gen. Robert E. Wood, national chairman of the America First committee, called last night upon William Allen White to join with the committee in "uncompromising opposition" to President Roosevelt's war powers bill.

In a telegram to the Emporia, Kas., editor who resigned as chairman of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies [he is now honorary chairman] in protest against the activities of war mongers in the organization, Gen. Wood asserted that the bill "would destroy our republican form of government and make the President a dictator with power to override every law on the statute books and take us into war whenever he saw fit."

Ask His Aid as War Foe.

"By various of your statements," Gen. Wood said to White, "you have shown yourself sincerely opposed to our entry into war. Will you join with us in uncompromising opposition to it or to any other suggestion that the American people can no longer govern thmeselves?"

James Jenkins, chairman of the labor division of the Chicago chapter of the America First committee, warned that American labor faces certain regimentation in the event the President's dictatorial bill is passed and the United States goes to war.

Jenkins joined in urging citizens to send a deluge of protest letters to Illinois senators and representatives in congress to help defeat what he termed "an approach to totalitarianism." He said passage of the bill would lead to war.

Pledge Defense Sacrifices.

"American labor is prepared to make all necessary sacrifices to arm the United States for defense," he said. "It should be sure, however, that those sacrifices are made for this country and not for some foreign nation.

"All labor organizations were disrupted during the first world war and industry was placed under severe restrictions. If we become involved in the present war, organized workers inevitably must lose the rights they have gained."

Jenkins announced that local union No. 1, Progressive Mine Workers of America, has indorsed the objectives of the America First committee to keep America out of the European war and to build an impregnable defense for the United States. The local, with headquarters at Gillespie, Ill., has a membership of 2,100.

Joint Council No. 25 of the international teamsters' union, comprising 44 locals with 60,000 members, previously had indorsed the committee's work.

ITALIAN FLYERS CHASED OFF FIVE LIBYAN AIRFIELDS

More British Guns Join Shelling of Tobruk.

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 12 (AP).—Fresh British guns hauled across the Libyan sands joined the shelling of the besieged Italian seaport base of Tobruk tonight under the constant protection of British aviators who reported Italian planes have been chased from five air bases in eastern Libya.

The new artillery came 70 miles from the Bardia region, where it had played a major rôle in softening Italian defenses for the final British-Australian attack on that captured Fascist base.

Tobruk, with a garrison believed smaller than the nearly 45,000 troops who were killed, wounded, or captured in Bardia, has been caught in a ring of British steel for five days with the defenders' retreat cut off.

Loses His "Air Eyes."

British military observers say now that Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, Italian commander in Libya, must fight in the future without his air eyes as the royal air force, they declare, has seized command of the air.

An R. A. F. communique told of more attacks on the Italians in Libya and a raid by the fleet air arm on Palermo, on Sicily's northern coast.

The R. A. F. said fighters maintaining a constant patrol in eastern Libya reported "Derna, Martuba, Tmimi, and Gazala were all clear of enemy aircraft except for a considerable number that were unserviceable" and that the Bomba seaplane base, between Tobruk and Derna, "appears to have been abandoned by the enemy."

Shipping Main Objective.

In the Palermo raid, the R. A. F. reported, shipping was the main objective.

"One bomb fell very close to a merchant vessel of about 8,000 tons," it said.

The R. A. F. also raided Benina and Berka airdromes again and told of bombs straddling buildings.

Italians Admit British Raids.

ROME, Jan. 12 (AP).—The Italian high command today said that the British made repeated raids against Italian bases in Libya which were not otherwise identified. It said artillery dueling and patrol clashes had occurred in the East African theater of war.

BERLIN SHOPPER SCORES TRIUMPH: A PUMPKIN AT $2

With Month's Ration of Eggs, It Will Be Pie.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—German housewives scan the advertising sections of their morning newspapers as eagerly as American housewives do. The Americans may study them for bargains in food or clothes for their families. The Germans look for the official notices announcing what foods may be obtained in their town in the coming weeks on their special ration cards, which supplement the regular meat, butter, bread, and sugar cards.

This morning Berliners found notices promising a special allotment of fruit and dried vegetables, which is welcome news in view of the shortage of vegetables and fruit of which the housewives have been complaining. How big the rations of dried vegetables will be was not revealed, but they were promised for March and April.

Lots of Chicory—and No Oil.

In stores that sell vegetables and fruits one can obtain potatoes, cabbage, and occasionally some carrots and red beets and loads of chicory. The chicory, a salad vegetable, must usually be prepared without oil, which is a rare treat.

In extensive shopping around, Americans who wanted to bake a pumpkin pie found some pumpkins in the fruit section of a department store. A salesgirl warned that they were frozen and would not keep long. They cost 10 cents a pound, whereas pumpkins were plentiful last year and cost not more than 3 cents a pound. Nevertheless, the 20 pound pumpkin, which cost $2, was carried off in triumph by the purchaser.

Now for the Eggs.

By using a month's ration of eggs for one person—which means two—she will be able to bake the pumpkin pie. She still has some spices in her pantry, otherwise she would be in a quandary because spices are hard to get. One can buy fancy little envelopes containing synthetic spices, which are made to smell like cinnamon or some other spice. They do not come up to the mark, however, of the real product.

Starting tomorrow, all holders of ration cards will be permitted to buy a pound of apples or pears, and children less than 18 years old will be entitled to two pounds. The children also will get a pound of oranges or tangerines. Adults were promised a probable orange ration later. Jews receive none of these rations.

Kill 2,989 Chinese in Month in One Province, Japs Say

New York, Jan. 12 (AP).—A Domei, Japanese news agency, broadcast heard here today said Japanese forces encountered 36,000 Chinese troops in Shansi province last month, killed 2,989, and took 721 prisoners. It said seized material included 1,500 rifles, other arms, ammunition, and about 21,890 bushels of cereals.

REPORT CHINESE ADD THIRD PART TO SOVIET PACT

CHUNGKING, Jan. 12 (AP).—An agreement on the third part of a Chinese-soviet Russian pact, providing for exchange of Chinese minerals for Russian military machinery and supplies, was reported today by Sao Tang Jih Pao, Chinese army newspaper.

It said the goods exchanged would amount to the equivalent of 100,000,000 United States dollars.

The second part of the agreement, reported on Jan. 3, was said to have involved exchange of Chinese wool for Russian supplies. The first part providing for an exchange of Chinese tea for Russian material was announced on Dec. 11.

'NO INDEMNITY' PEACE ASKED BY BRITISH RADICALS

Organize for 'People's Rule' of Country.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Sponsored by left wing labor and communist leaders, 1,891 delegates representing, they said, more than 2,000,000 workers, held a "people's convention" in London today. Slogans announced its purposes as "End the causes of war!" "Government of the people, for the people, by the people!" "Peace without annexation or indemnity!" and "Power is in your hands; learn to use it."

Speakers warned that the government is attempting to buy out the labor leaders who have been urged to recommend the use of conscripted labor under a plan that would make it appear that labor is voluntarily agreeing to submit to government dictatorship over the workers in order to speed up war production.

British Demand "New Order."

The convention probably would not have attracted any more interest than a mammoth exhibition of soapbox oratory except for the growing demand, echoed even in the conservative press, that Britain, as well as Europe, must adopt a "new order" when victory is won.

Arthur Greenwood, powerful labor leader who has been named minister for post-war construction, already has advanced the slogan, "A decent life for all." He has told the press he is planning to extend state ownership to many industries, including coal, all forms of transportation, including railways, roads, canals, and coastal shipping; agriculture, gasoline and oil, and production of iron, steel, and building materials.

Convention Adopts Program.

Denis N. Pritt, a member of parliament who was expelled from the Labor party last March because he refused to join in condemnation of the invasion of Finland by Russia, presented eight points which the convention adopted. They provided:

1. A higher living standard for the people, including increased wages for civil and defense workers, dependants' allowances, pensions, compensation insurance, and unemployment allowances.

2. Adequate air raid precautions, bombproof shelters, and effective provisions to supply all the needs of air raid victims.

3. Restoration, safeguard, and extension of trade union rights, including that to strike.

Propose to Rule Industry.

4. Emergency powers to be used to take over banks, land transport, and large scale industry to eliminate economic chaos, profiteering, and corruption, and organize production in the interest of the people.

5. Freedom for India and the right for all colonial people to determine their own destiny, and ending of the enforced partition of Ireland.

6. Friendship with Russia.

7. A truly representative people's government.

8. A people's peace achieved by the working people of all the countries and based on the rights of all peoples to determine their own destinies.

Communist M. P. Present.

The meeting was presided over by Harry Adams, left wing labor leader, and on the platform with him were Pritt, W. J. R. Squance, former secretary of the engineers' union; W. Gallacher, only communist member of parliament; Lieutenant Commander Young; Prof. J. B. S. Haldane, famous biologist who now is editor of the communist Daily Worker; Beatrice Lehmann, actress; Walter Greenwood, author; V. K. Krishana Menon, secretary of the India league; Dr. Moodey, West Indian, and Miss Indira Nehru, daughter of an Indian political leader.

Twenty delegates were selected to form a committee to organize the "people's convention" on a permanent basis.

Scene of Fighting

Reports from the Thai high command said (1) there had been heavy artillery fire along the Mekong river and (2) that fierce fighting had developed in Cambodia.

BANGKOK, Thailand, Jan. 12 (AP).—The Thai [Siamese] high command reported today that fierce fighting was developing in the French Indo-Chinese province of Cambodia which Thai troops invaded in force last week.

The communique said the advance continued steadily with effective cooperation of the air force, but gave no place names or details. Heavy artillery fire was reported along the Mekong river which separates Indo-China's Laos province from Siam.

The Bangkok radio, answering the Saigon radio's suggestion that France was prepared to negotiate a settlement of the frontier dispute, in which Thailand is pressing an old territorial claim, said Thailand always is ready for negotiations.

RETURN BANDIT TO FACE TRIAL IN GANG HOLDUPS

An ex-convict, said by police to be a member of a gang rounded up here last summer, was brought back from Kansas City, Mo., yesterday after he had waived extradition. He is Fred Gurney, alias Fred Bukowski, 43 years old, whose home is in Kansas City.

Fred Gurney.

Lieut. Kyran Phelan, head of the robbery detail, said Gurney had admitted taking part in the $400 robbery of the Pulaski Council Security association, 1062 North Ashland avenue, last summer, and that he was involved in other robberies.

The others of the gang, all indicted last August as robbers, included Moe Factor, 53, of 4526 Sheridan road; Richard Smith, 43, of 2849 North Racine avenue; Clarence Hawkins, 41, of 11 West Division street; Arthur McKwani, 36, of 8728 Morgan street; Montgomery Hall, 34, of 2924 North Linder avenue, and Theodore Nash, 39, of 1118 North State street. The first four named also are ex-convicts.

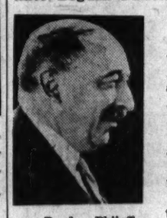
Earth Shocks Demolish Many Houses in Turkey

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Jan. 12 (AP).—Earth shocks recurring in the past 48 hours in the Smyrna district have demolished a number of houses but there have been no reports of casualties. Two severe tremors also were felt here yesterday but no damage was recorded.

BULGARIA NEVER CAN BECOME NAZI, PREMIER WARNS

Tells People War May Yet Engulf Them.

RUSE, Bulgaria, Jan. 12 (AP).—Premier Bogdan Philoff told his people tonight that they might yet be brought into the war, but he said he was sure they would not forgive anybody who tried to make Bulgaria National Socialist [Nazi], communist, or Fascist."



Bogdan Philoff.

In a speech at this frontier town, just across the Danube from Rumania [where hundreds of thousands of German soldiers are massed], the premier avoided reference to reports abroad of German pressure on Bulgaria but said specifically that Bulgaria wants to follow her own traditions.

"National Socialism, Fascism, and communism may be good for Germany, Italy, and Russia," he said, "but they cannot be transplanted to Bulgarian soil," he declared.

Sees Long War Ahead.

President Roosevelt's recent statements, he said, reflect the dangers of the present "gigantic battle which threatens to go around the whole world." President Roosevelt's message to congress, he went on, "unquestionably" is an indication of a long war that is likely to spread to other parts of the world.

The aims of Bulgarian foreign policy, Philoff said, are "to guard the people from the terror of war and in general to keep Bulgaria and all the Balkans at peace," but he added:

"To keep the peace does not depend on Bulgaria. We must realize that one day we may have to enter the war. The people must be prepared to defend their vital interests."

Philoff said the army is better equipped than in the last war.

Russia Denies Invasion.

MOSCOW, Jan. 12 (AP).—Russia has not consented to any passage of German troops into Bulgaria, nor has she been informed of such a move if it has occurred, it was announced officially late tonight.

A special communique distributed by Tass, official news agency, was broadcast by the Moscow radio an hour ahead of the usual news bulletin.

The Tass statement, in denial of foreign press reports, asserted Germany never has asked Russia's consent to the entrance of German soldiers into Bulgaria and Bulgaria never has approached Russia with an inquiry regarding the passage of German troops thru her borders.

A similar communique was issued at the time of the entry of the Germans into Rumania last fall.

Russia and Bulgaria traditionally have maintained close and friendly relations.

Regiment of Norwegians Sought to Fight England

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 12 (AP).—The newspapers of Oslo, Norway, will carry an appeal to "all national Norwegians" by Vidkun Quisling tomorrow to form a regiment to fight against England. The regiment, Quisling's statement will say, will be formed in Germany under the name of "Regiment Nordland." Quisling himself, informed sources said, probably would be chief of the volunteers.

FRENCH SAY: TUG OF WAR, WITH U. S. ON BRITISH ROPE

Believe Nazi-Red Pact Offsets Our Aid.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Jan. 12. — French newspapers today devoted considerable attention to President Roosevelt's plan for lending and leasing war materials to England and asserted that the proposal finds its counterbalance in the new economic pact just signed between Russia and Germany.

What is France's position in this give and take of international politics? The question is raised and the answer suggested is that France is for France, and that may be a signpost for Admiral William D. Leahy, American ambassador.

Today's Le Temps, in an article on "American armaments," characterized President Roosevelt's fears for American safety as lacking in a sense of reality.

Call It Tug of War.

The Clermont Ferrand newspaper Avenir pictured international politics as a tug of war between London, backed by Washington, and Berlin, backed by Moscow with the Japanese in the offing.

In this tug of war the French wonder what their position must be. Avenir said:

"France has no idea of intervening in the maneuvers of states. France is only thinking of overhauling its political and social machinery and preserving the integrity of its colonial empire which guarantees its future rehabilitation.

"The radiating strength of France is still intact in the prestige that a military defeat has not obliterated and it is reflected in the fact that our [colonial] conquests have never brought servility but rather resulted in subsequent understandings and friendships."

Recall Roosevelt Message.

President Roosevelt, in his New Year message to Chief of State Petain, wished that France would again soon be enjoying "liberty, equality and fraternity."

The Petain government, however, now frowns on such a formula and has replaced it with what it considers a more fitting one, "labor, family and country."

Beneficiaries Know This About Life Insurance

'HINDSIGHT AND FORESIGHT'
a weekly column by
Holger J. Johnson
President Institute of Life Insurance

THERE are now 6½ times as many policyholders as there were in 1900. Since your father's time, there has been an amazing spread of life insurance benefits, until today almost every family has at least one life insurance policy.

JOHNSON

It has been suggested that this ought to make life insurance easier to sell in the next generation. Certainly it seems reasonable to suppose that tomorrow's policy owners will have learned at firsthand, as today's beneficiaries, the advantages of life insurance in action.

From my experience I doubt that this will change the sales problem of the agent, for this problem is not primarily to overcome lack of appreciation of the benefits of life insurance. Over 96% of all adult Americans believe thoroughly in the principle of life insurance.

The problem tomorrow will probably be the same as it is today—to persuade a man who already knows he needs protection to make the sacrifices necessary to get it and keep it. This has always been one of the most difficult jobs in the world—and one of the most important.

Even though it will probably always be necessary to sell insurance protection, I believe that the great extension of the benefits of life insurance we are witnessing today will bring about better use of it in the future. A person who has actually seen life insurance in action will be more inclined to make it a matter of course to tell his agent what the agent needs to know about his financial status and his family circumstances in order to work out a sound plan and keep it up to date.

Also, as time goes on, there will be more and more frank and open discussion about insurance within the family, for one who has been a beneficiary should have learned how important it is for his own beneficiaries to know in advance what the insurance is expected to accomplish. He will think of life insurance not as a private matter, but as family business—the most important of all business matters affecting the fortune of his family.

Watch Family Now While Epidemic Colds Are Spreading

At a treacherous time like this, with an epidemic of contagious colds all around you, what you do today may save you and your family a lot of sickness, worry and trouble later.

Follow these simple rules of health: Live normally. Avoid excesses. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular. Take some exercise daily—preferably outdoors. Get plenty of rest and sleep.

Then use these two time-tested treatments when needed.

AT THE FIRST SNIFFLE, SNEEZE OR NASAL IRRITATION . . . put a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril. This helps to prevent many colds from developing, because Va-tro-nol is expressly designed to help Nature's own defenses against colds. (If a head cold causes stuffiness, you'll find that a few drops of Va-tro-nol helps clear the clogging mucus and makes breathing easier.)

IF A CHEST COLD OR COUGHING COLD DEVELOPS (some colds get by all precautions) use Vicks VapoRub to relieve miseries. Rub VapoRub on throat, chest and back and cover with a warmed cloth. VapoRub acts to bring relief 2 ways at once. It stimulates surface of chest and back like a poultice. At the same time it releases helpful medicinal vapors that are breathed direct into the irritated air passages.

Both Va-tro-nol and VapoRub have been tested through years of use in millions of homes. When you use these two medicines you are not experimenting, you are not taking needless chances. Remember: If the condition of the cold fails to respond quickly to treatment—or if more serious trouble is indicated—call your family physician right away.

Free to mothers—interesting 8-page booklet chock-full of helpful information about colds. Send name and address to Vicks, Dept. A-2, 122 E. 42 St., New York, N. Y.

LONDON FORCES REPEL NEW NAZI FIRE BOMB RAID

Many Planes Dump Loads When Turned Back.

LONDON, Jan. 12 (AP).—The Nazi air force made another attempt to burn London tonight, showering down high explosives and incendiary bombs on certain districts. Hundreds of regular firemen and auxiliary fire service men, aided by hundreds of civilians, risked their lives to prevent the spread of flames.

Great numbers of planes passed over the city at intervals. Reports said scores of Nazi planes were turned back at the Thames estuary and jettisoned their loads in the marshes under the antiaircraft fire.

The raiders began coming over early in the evening while the capital still was clearing away the débris of Saturday night's four hour raid.

As on Saturday night, the "all-clear" sounded after the attack had lasted about four hours.

Engaged by Night Fighters.

Some time after the London sirens sounded, British fighter planes were heard circling overhead, indicating that a night combat force was taking the air against the raiders.

German planes also were reported over Liverpool and a town in northeast England. Relays of bombers roared across the south coast and were reported to have fanned out for attacks as far as western England. A southwest town was reported attacked for some hours.

The Royal Air Force blasted at German-occupied "invasion ports" and airdromes in France and attacked "objectives in northern Italy" during the night, an authoritative source said.

[Air alarms had been reported in Switzerland, often an indication of British flights to and from Italy.]

The royal air force issued a communique announcing wide Saturday daylight raids on the Dutch and Belgian coasts with bomb damage to barges in a canal at Middelharnis and hits on the mole at Zeebrugge.

Dig for Portsmouth Victims.

PORTSMOUTH, England, Jan. 12 (AP).—Soldiers, sailors, and civilians of this navy town spent the week-end digging victims from buildings blasted by Friday night's heavy air attack.

Claim 3 Planes Downed.

BERLIN, Jan. 12 (AP).—Military objectives in London and other British cities were subjected to a heavy German air bombardment tonight, informed sources said.

Earlier in the day three British Hurricane planes attempting to fly into northern France in the region between Calais and Boulogne were shot down, they said.

A 3,000 ton merchant vessel was reported sunk at the mouth of the Humber river by a German bomber who said he also scored direct hits on buildings and destroyed a British airport at Ramsgate.

Accuse Priest of Teaching Nazi Doctrine to Filipinos

MANILA, P. I., Jan. 13, Monday (AP).—Father Luis Bogel, German Catholic priest at Subic, location of a United States navy base, was summoned today to appear before a deportation board Jan. 20 to show cause why he should not be deported from the Philippine Islands as an undesirable alien. He was accused of having conducted, under the guise of religious teaching, propaganda in favor of totalitarian nations. Also it is charged he emphasized the futility of resistance by small nations to peaceful overtures of strong nations.

EX-EDITOR FIRED OUT OF HIS PARTY BY COMMUNISTS

Charge He Failed to Meet Obligations.

New York, Jan. 12 [Special].—Clarence Hathaway, former editor of the Daily Worker and one of three top communist leaders in America has been expelled from the party, the national committee revealed today. Hathaway was dropped as editor of the paper six months ago, but no public announcement was made of his dismissal.

The official notice of the purge of the red leader said he had been expelled for "failure to meet personal and political responsibilities assumed by him, for desertion and for failing and refusing to take steps to rehabilitate himself." The national committee said it had given Hathaway three months in which to "clear" himself, but that he had continued to "default his obligations."

Browder Declines Comment.

Notice of Hathaway's expulsion was contained in the Sunday Worker. Secrecy shrouded the incidents leading up to the break. Earl Browder, general secretary of the party and other leaders declined to discuss the case and Hathaway could not be found to present his version.

Inquiry at his old address in Brooklyn disclosed he had moved without leaving a forwarding address. Police said they had no idea of his whereabouts. Hathaway is free on bail pending appeal from a 30 day jail sentence imposed after he had been convicted of criminally libelling Mrs. Edith Liggett, widow of the slain editor, who was assassinated by gangsters in Minneapolis.

In August, 1939, Hathaway was locked up in the civil section of Brooklyn city prison for four days for failure to pay a judgment of $2,672 obtained by Mrs. Liggett in another libel action. He was released under bond of $5,600 on condition that he stay in Brooklyn for six months.

Daily Worker Bombed.

When the offices of the Daily Worker were bombed on June 20, 1940, Hathaway said the act was committed by "the fifth column that draws its inspiration from the war parties high in Wall street." In the next month Hathaway was deposed from his editorship.

Hathaway was reported to have turned against the communist "party line," of which he formerly was the principal exponent. His associates noted that he had been a staunch supporter of the Stalin-Hitler pact and had justified the soviet invasion of Finland.

Born in Minnesota 46 years ago and a machinist by trade, Hathaway became interested in communism in 1919 and helped organize the party in the United States.

Browder is also having trouble. He is now free on bail while appealing a four year sentence for passport fraud and the federal government has ordered the deportation of his wife. His case now is before the Supreme court.

LOVE CUTS WAY THRU BARRIERS BETWEEN NORWAY AND SWEDEN

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 12 (AP).—Love, which has been known to laugh at locksmiths, is circumventing immigration restrictions between German occupied Norway and Sweden. Sources at Oslo, Norway, say a great many weddings are occurring along the Norwegian-Swedish border, with Norwegian girls standing just within the boundary and their Swedish sweethearts just over the line in Sweden. When a couple is pronounced husband and wife the girl steps across the border as a Swedish citizen.

HUNT 4TH VICTIM OF CRASH FATAL TO CHICAGO MAN

Alexandria, La., Jan. 12 [Special].—Military authorities and state policemen today hunted the body of a possible fourth victim of an auto crash in which three National Guardsmen, two of them from Wisconsin, are known to have been killed 40 miles north of here on U. S. highway 71 late yesterday. The car crashed into a bridge and plunged into a bayou.

The known dead are Private First Class James C. Davis, 22 years old, of Winnetka, Ill., a member of the 106th cavalry regiment; Private Joseph H. Saris, 23, of Beloit, and Private First Class Kenneth L. Nusslock, 23, Milwaukee, both members of the 126th field artillery, 32d division.

A fourth guardsman identified only as Marshall Ritter was believed to have been with the trio when they left Camp Beauregard, presumably to drive to Shereveport. It was feared that Marshall may be dead, but camp authorities emphasized that this could not be ascertained immediately.

FALLS DEAD ATTENDING MASS.

John H. Bonk, 61 years old, 3961 Barry avenue, a former railroad maintenance man, died of an apparent heart attack yesterday while attending St. Hyacinth's Catholic church, 3631 George street, with his wife, Anna.

16,000 WORKERS SPEED POWDER PLANT BUILDING

Output of Works Will Be 600,000 Pounds Daily.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Charlestown, Ind., Jan. 12.—A fast moving drama in the national defense effort is being enacted here at the Indiana Ordnance works site, where 16,000 picked workers are racing against time to build a government plant that will make 600,000 pounds of smokeless powder a day.

So rapid is the pace of construction that truck roads on the 5,000 acre tract change overnight, stacks and piles of materials vanish in one place and appear in another daily, and motorists driving past the fenced and guarded plant can observe progress from day to day.

Calls for 450 Buildings.

About 450 buildings, including powder making facilities, warehouses, and shops are to be built. Included will be six "lines of production," each a self-contained unit for making smokeless powder. The original project covered two such lines of production, each with a capacity of 100,000 pounds a day. These two may be ready to begin production by May, according to army officials who are supervising the work of the private contractor.

The other four lines, contracted for later, will added 400,000 pounds to daily capacity, and will raise the total cost to $74,000,000. That figure does not include a powder bag loading plant to be built near by at a cost of $15,000,000 to $18,000,000.

E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc., the chemical company, is building the smokeless powder plant for the government. The company will operate the works, but ownership will be held by the government. When construction reaches its peak, about 20,000 men will be at work. About 8,000 persons will be required to operate the plant.

Future Use in Doubt.

Peak production will be maintained for at least five years, army officials said. None would guess whether the plant would be closed after that.

Work is being pushed on the plant in eight hour shifts which stretch all around the clock. Employés work six days a week, and are paid at the time and a half overtime rate for the sixth day.

Wages are paid at prevailing rates as determined by the federal department of labor. Du Pont does not divulge the rates, but individual workers' statements indicated common laborers receive 60 cents an hour; carpenters, $1.31¼, and bricklayers, $1.50. Some other types of skilled workers receive more than the carpenters or bricklayers.

Bus Lines Established.

Railroad yards are being built. Long strings of Baltimore and Ohio railroad passenger cars stand on sidings, waiting to carry workers nonstop to "Jeff" [Jeffersonville, 12 miles south of Charlestown on the river opposite Louisville] or to Louisville. Buses of newly established lines have been assigned a parking place inside the plant, where about 2,400 automobiles of workers are packed at all hours.

Guard rules are rigid. Visitors must fill out detailed records and submit satisfactory identification cards, and are accompanied about the temporary, corrugated metal administration quarters by "runners." Tours of the site are not permitted except on instructions from the war department at Washington, D. C.

Workers must present identification badges to every guard they pass, and are called upon twice daily in the field to identify themselves.

Family and public cemeteries which lie inside the plant area are being marked off by white picket fences and left undisturbed.

But the Clark County Asylum for the Aged and Infirm, south of Charlestown, has been purchased for the project for $90,000.

Meantime the process of clearing out the farmers on the adjacent site of the bag loading plant is about to get under way. That project, called the Hoosier ordnance works, will take the 393 acre farm of William Carr Lentz, crowned international corn king in Chicago in 1935. His land, owned by the family for 75 years, is said to have the highest AAA rating in Clark county.

A subsidiary of Goodyear Tire and Rubber company will build the bag loading plant, where 3,500 workers, most of them women, will pack powder in bags for big guns.

The Charlestown powder making plant is located strategically in relation to Fort Knox, Ky., and several other military establishments in the Louisville area.

WPA ART RAPPED AS A HARDSHIP ON REAL ARTISTS

Minnesota Project Work Is Criticized.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on back page.)

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 12.—Charges that the Minnesota art project of the federal Work Projects administration has imposed financial hardship on independent artists and has curtailed their opportunities were made today by Mrs. Harriet Hanley, head of the Hanley galleries. Many of the canvases turned out on the project, she said, are unworthy of designation as art and—a few years back—bore evidence of subversive propaganda.

"Independent artists have suffered," Mrs. Hanley said, "because schools and other public buildings which once bought their work now get it for nothing from the WPA. Many on the WPA are not artists by any standard."

117 Artists in Association.

The Hanley galleries is one of the leading art houses in Minneapolis and St. Paul and exhibits work of the Minnesota Artists' association. Mrs. Hanley was one of the founders of this association more than four years ago. It was formed to combat the Artists' union, an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations. The association now has a membership of 117 artists, some of whom are on WPA.

The union, meanwhile, has declined from a top roster of about 100 in 1936 to a handful of members at present.

Criticizes Three Paintings.

Three paintings by WPA artists in recent years were discussed by Mrs. Hanley. The first, by Mac LeSueur, is entitled "Sunday Morning."

"That certainly isn't an inspiring canvas," said Mrs. Hanley. "There is a propaganda element in it, too, in depicting the lowly lot of the family."

Mrs. Hanley said she had some difficulty in deciding which was "up" and "down" in the second canvas. This is by Edwin Holm and is entitled "The Dancer."

"That's, of course, abstractionist art, if it's art," she remarked. The third, called "Spooks," is by Alex Oja.

"That is a Halloween theme, probably," Mrs. Hanley said. "It's a pretty grisly piece, tho, and it would be hard to designate it as art."

These paintings are in the Walker Art gallery, which has been taken over in part by the WPA art center. The gallery was founded by the late T. B. Walker, lumber millionaire, and is partly financed by the city.

WPA Head Defends Project.

Daniel S. Defenbacher, head of the WPA art project in Minneapolis and St. Paul, said it employs about 250 persons in the twin cities, 150 of them as mural and easel painters and sculptors.

"We are trying to stimulate the art consciousness of the community," he said, "and our artists are encouraged to choose any school of painting they want. They must show ability to get on the project and remain on it.

"We have the most democratic art in history in America today. And painting of social content—call it propaganda if you will—is one phase of that art. We give instruction in the fine arts and the crafts to 1,280 people in our classes. There is no fee for these courses."

Russell A. Plimpton, director of the Minneapolis Institute of Arts, which corresponds to the Chicago Art institute, said he believes the WPA art project is exerting a generally favorable influence in the community.

DEMERIS TWINS, BORN IN 1 YEAR, NOW FOURSOME

George and Georgianna, and William and James, the Demeris' twins, spent two hours together yesterday for the first time since the arrival of William and James.

This sounds as complicated as it actually is for their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Demeris of 1109 East 65th street. The last thing in the world they expected was to have two sets of twins, both born prematurely, within a single year. But they did.

George and Georgianna, who now tip the scales at 24 and 22 pounds, were a year old Jan. 4. William and James, who now weigh 6 pounds 3 ounces, and 7 pounds 10 ounces, will be a month old Thursday. Both sets of twins were delivered by Dr. Earl E. Wilson, the same physician who 24 years ago delivered their father, now produce manager in a grocery.

The newest set is living with the parents. Their older brother and sister are currently living with their parental grandmother.

EXPECT MEXICAN CONGRESS TO PUT CURB ON LABOR

Camacho's Program to Pass, Say Leaders.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 12 (AP).—Conservative revision of much of the basic legislation adopted during the Cardenas administration will be approved in February's special session of congress, legislative leaders predicted today.

Manuel Avila Camacho.

In calling the February session President Manuel Avila Camacho made public a list of bills he will submit for enactment. Marked for revision were the general law of labor, the civil service code, the law of national education, and the law of implementing article 27 of the constitution on Mexico's rights of the petroleum subsoil.

Probable Changes Listed.

Sources close to the president asserted the following changes probably would be proposed:

1. The definition of a legal strike would be made considerably stricter and the power of the government to intervene in labor-capital conflicts, and even to compel arbitration in certain cases, would be strengthened.

2. Civil service code provisions permitting public employés to strike would be replaced by a flat, compulsory arbitration clause, and the employés syndicalization privileges would be restricted.

Church Curb May Be Relaxed.

3. The law establishing compulsory socialist education in all Mexican public and private schools would be rescinded. In addition, a modified share in public education would be extended again to the Catholic church, which is now banned from all school activities by the constitution.

4. Some modification of the present ban on granting oil concessions to foreign interests, which might lead to an understanding with United States and other companies whose properties were expropriated in 1938.

AIR FLIVVER RACE IS CAPTURED BY A REBUILT TAYLOR

Result Is Tribute to Old Timer's Engineering.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 12 [Special].—The puddle jumpers had their day at the Sportsman Flyers' air races here today and Jack Snodgrass of Waterloo, Ia., won the Firestone trophy race, premier speed event of the country for flivver airplanes.

Snodgrass flew a Taylorcraft high wing ship with a 65 horsepower motor. His speed was 106 miles an hour for six laps over a 2½ mile course. Several ships competing against him made faster time, but Snodgrass benefited by a time handicap.

Eight entrants qualified by placing in elimination contests among craft of their class. Four of these were Culver Cadets—a new low wing ship weighing less than 1,200 pounds, with 75 horsepower engine and retractible landing gear.

Handicap Allowances.

There was one other Taylorcraft and one Luscomb, both with 65 horsepower motors. Under the rules, the Taylorcraft started at scratch, the Luscomb 1 minute and 3 seconds later, and the four Cadets 3 minutes and 18 seconds after the Taylorcraft got off.

Second place went to the other Taylorcraft flown by Fon H. Stark, also from Waterloo. The Luscomb with Julian O'Neal of Miami in the cockpit was third.

The Cadets finished last with Wally Shanz of Atlanta, Ga., fourth; Ted Thompson of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., fifth; Frank Trotman of Winston-Salem, N. C., sixth, and Danny Fowlie of New Orleans bringing up the rear.

Tribute to Old Racer.

The Taylorcraft victory was a demonstration of engineering skill by Johnny Livingston, formerly of Aurora, Ill., who now operates a school and repair depot an Waterloo. Johnny, one of the country's oldest racing fliers, who developed the speedy clipped wing monocoupes that held all titles in barnstorming racing for nearly a decade, prepared the ships flown by Snodgrass and Stark.

Their exceptional speed was a result of special fiber glass fairings at all points where struts and braces joined the body of the ship or the wings. Livingston removed the tail wheels and adjusted the propellers so they turned as much as 300 revolutions more than normal. Thereafter the little engines developed more than their rated power.

Clinches Lund Trophy.

Mike Murphy, a lank, blond veteran from Findlay, O., won permanent possession of the Lund acrobatics trophy, symbolic of the stunt championship of the United States. It was Mike's third win in four years. Today he flew a German type ship specially designed for acrobatics. He had opportunity for less than an hour's practice on this particular plane before entering competition against last year's winner, Vincent [Squeek] Burnett of Richmond, Va.

The plane originally belonged to Alex Papana of Rumania, who has thrilled air show spectators in the United States for the last four years. It is a Beucher Jungmeister and has been pronounced by experts as probably the finest type for stunt work.

GREEN MAINTAINS HIS SILENCE ON CABINET CHOICES

Gets Rousing Send-off to Inauguration.

Governor Elect Dwight H. Green went to Springfield yesterday for his inauguration today, leaving Republicans in Chicago still in the dark on his cabinet choices.

Green and his party—including Mrs. Green, their two daughters, and Republican leaders and personal associates—received a rousing send off at the Union station as they boarded a private car on the Abraham Lincoln.

The incoming governor dropped no hints of his decision in the selection of state department heads, and his advisers said they were not certain whom he would name. It was said Green might not complete the list of cabinet members for several weeks.

Reports Agree on Only 2 Posts.

Reports agreed on only two of the posts. It is believed that Rodney H. Brandon, who headed that department under Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, again will become director of public welfare and that Frank G. Thompson of Mount Vernon will be named director of public works.

It was said there is a two or three man contest for the job of director of agriculture. Clarence Buck, former director under Emmerson, has strong backing from the Lowden-Emmerson forces. Green campaign workers are reported to favor John [Punch] Brown of Kansas, Ill. Leaders of the old Small organization are said to favor Stillman Stannard, who was director under Gov. Len Small.

Gilbert E. Keebler, who has worked with Green thruout his campaigns, may not be made administrative auditor, as has been thought generally, but may be appointed to one of the departments.

Other Jobs in Doubt.

Similar doubt surrounds Green's appointments to the important commissions in his administration. It is conceded he may permit Roy D. Keehn to retain the chairmanship of the Illinois Commerce commission. There are several candidates for the chairmanship of the state tax commission. Deneen A. Watson, who is head of the tax section of the Illinois Bar association, is said to be in the lead. Others mentioned are Attorney Livingston E. Osborn and Phil W. Collins.

The gossip is that a banker who was one of Green's earliest backers has nominated a banking man for appointment as director of finance. Insurance men have tried to aid Green in finding the right man for director of insurance, but there is a report the new governor may select an attorney or a business man who has no entanglements in the insurance business.

It is believed Green will devote considerably more time to learning the situation in union organizations before naming a new director of labor, and that the nominations of both miners' unions will be considered in the selection of a director of mines and mining.

Off for Springfield

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

George F. Barrett and Mrs. Barrett leaving on the Illinois Central "Daylight" for Springfield yesterday. Today Barrett will become attorney general of Illinois.

JUDGES TO HOLD NEW PARLEYS ON TAX BUREAU

May Reconsider Stand Against Staff.

Judge Harry M. Fisher said yesterday that judges of the Circuit court, who refused last week to authorize employment of 42 persons in a special tax collection bureau, may reconsider their decision if they have assurance the new bureau will not be an empty gesture at collecting delinquent taxes.

"There will be further conferences between judges and supporters of the plan," he said. "If the judges are convinced the bureau will be effective, and if they have assurances of coöperation from the county treasurer, the state's attorney, the sheriff, and other officials, they probably will consent to hiring the additional workers."

Establishment of this bureau to collect nearly half a billion dollars in unpaid taxes has been recommended by the Association of Commerce as a means of solving the financial dilemma in which the county and other local governments find themselves.

County Budget 23 Millions.

The tentative 1941 county budget lists requested appropriations totaling $23,099,153. This is 5½ millions more than estimated revenue for the year. County commissioners will hold their first public hearing on the budget at 10:30 a. m. today.

Tax experts estimate that if taxes could be collected promptly, and if delinquent properties could be returned to the tax rolls, tax bills could be reduced as much as 20 per cent.

Approval by the Circuit court judges is required to establish the special collection bureau, because the number of employés in county fee offices is set by the judges. Without such approval of the new bureau the alternative would be to use workers already employed in the county treasurer's office. John Toman, county treasurer, has said he could not spare workers to operate the bureaus.

Judge Fisher said the judges are skeptical of the plan because the coöperation it would require from county officers has not always been available. As an example he cited the present practice of collecting delinquent personal property taxes.

Simple Method Provided.

"Under the law," he explained, "the county treasurer may issue his own warrant, enter a home, and confiscate personal property on which taxes are owing. This is a simple, inexpensive, and effective procedure.

"It is almost never used, however. Instead, the treasurer files suit thru the state's attorney, obtains a judgment, and almost never executed the judgment."

Judge Fisher said similar inefficient methods of collecting delinquent real estate taxes existed. He said, however, that the county treasurer and the state's attorney had made commendable efforts to improve collections.

"Before we agree to the added expense of a new tax collecting bureau," he said, "we want to know whether county officials really mean business. The difference between income and expenditure in the county budget appears to be too great to hire 42 more employés unless we know they can more than pay their way."

PAVING INDUSTRY EYES GREEN FOR CLEW TO FUTURE

Contractors Looking for Some Changes.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 12.—The $35,000,000 a year Illinois paving industry is looking forward to the inauguration of Dwight H. Green as governor here tomorrow with more than idle curiosity. On the sidelines are contractors, material men, and insurance men watching a new pitcher warm up for the game they have played thru both Republican and Democratic administrations. They don't know much about Green's arm except that as a federal prosecutor he helped strike out Al Capone.

"We always got by in the past," said a contractor bolstering his optimism at the St. Nicholas hotel bar this afternoon, "so I suppose we'll get by O. K. in the future."

"There'll probably be some changes," said another contractor. "Julius Caesar had to take care of some friends when he built the Roman roads. But I guess we know the game well enough that we can continue to play."

"Did you say play, or pay?" a companion asked.

Contribute to Campaigns.

The road builders and their associates are historically a rich source for campaign donations. The state highway department spends more money than any other branch of the state government. It also supervises expenditures of gasoline tax funds by counties and cities. Those who enjoy this business share their profits by donating to campaign funds and by directing their purchases from companies with a favored political complexion.

Under the Democrats, the Material Service corporation expanded its sales of road materials. It got its start while the late Anton J. Cermak was president of the Cook county board and later mayor of Chicago. Horan and O'Brien, Chicago insurance agency headed by Al Horan, Chicago Municipal court bailiff, and the late Martin O'Brien, who was Cook county public administrator, got the bulk of the business of selling performance bonds and insurance policies to the highway contractors.

Chief Engineer Key Post.

The key position in the waning Democratic road building setup is that of chief engineer of the Illinois highway department. Ernst Lieberman, formerly of the Chicago city hall, who was retained by the retiring governor, John Stelle, after the death of Gov. Henry Horner, is the present holder of the office.

Before his mysterious death last March, the late F. Lynden Smith as Democratic campaign manager collected from members of the highway industry and as director of public work dictated their business relations with the state.

The relations of the industry to the state are more than appears in the statutes providing for free and open competition for contracts. First, the state highway department must certify that the contractor is qualified financially and by past performances to execute the contract.

After getting a job, a contractor can be made or broken by other discretionary powers in the state department. The department inspects materials and workmanship. The inspection can be tough or lenient.

NAME TWO SENATORS IN WEST VIRGINIA TO OCCUPY ONE U. S. SEAT

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 13, Monday (AP).—Matthew Mansfield Neely was sworn in as West Virginia's 21st governor early today in a fast moving political jockeying revolving over the selection of Neely's successor as U. S. senator.

Both the new governor and the retiring governor, Homer A. Holt, political enemies, announced his choice of a man to succeed Neely in the senate, with the belief prevailing that the senate itself would have to be final judge in the matter.

Neely named Dr. Joseph Rosier, president of Fairmont State Teachers college, as his choice for senator. Holt asserted he was offering the appointment to Clarence E. Martin, former president of the American Bar association. Neely was sworn in secretly shortly after his resignation from the senate became effective at 12:01 a. m.

NEW TAXPAYERS' FEDERATION FOR ILLINOIS FORMED

Cuts in State and Local Levies Sought.

Establishment of the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois, an organization pledged to check the spending of the Illinois state and local governments and work for lower taxes, was announced yesterday.

The announcement was accompanied by a warning from Sewell Avery, president of Montgomery Ward & Co., that taxpayers must take steps for their own protection against tax spending. Avery, one of the executives of nine large Chicago business institutions who have been chosen members of the federation's board of trustees, said:

"There exists in Illinois today an acute need for the protection of the taxpayers' interests. Illinois state and local governmental expenditures in 1940 will surpass the unprecedented total of $600,000,000. This amount represents a 70 per cent increase compared with the year 1933.

Cites Mounting U. S. Taxes.

"The imposition of larger federal taxes, together with future prospects of further increases resulting from the national defense program, make obligatory the reversal of the present trend of annual increases in tax spending by the state and local governments."

Offer Aid to Local Groups.

The announced purposes of the organization are: To aid local groups in reducing taxes; to offer state wide support of a tax policy that will include all necessary services and still be within the citizens' ability to pay; to combat waste and reduce expenditures.

The federation plans to form local taxpayers' associations and work with those already in existence.

DICTATORSHIP THRU CONSPIRACY.

The measure introduced in congress on Friday is entitled "A Bill to Further Promote the Defense of the United States and for Other Purposes." In fact it is, among other things, a bill to authorize a series of alliances with nations at war. Congress is asked to give this treaty making power to the President. He is to have the unobstructed right to decide with whom the United States is to be allied and on what terms.

The campaign formula of aid to Britain short of war has been left far behind and, if the bill passes, will be forgotten. What the President now proposes is full material support to any warring nation he elects for any reason to support. That is war and it will be so regarded by every nation on the globe.

The bill is an attempt to sidestep the constitutional provisions for the making of treaties and the making of war. Both provisions grew out of the bitter experience of centuries. Treaties, so the constitution says, may be made only with the advice and consent of the senate. War may be declared only by act of congress. The idea behind these requirements was to prevent the executive by himself from involving the nation in military alliances or in war. The fathers of the constitution had seen something of ambitious and reckless rulers leading their people to slaughter and ruin and had read a great deal more to the same effect. They decided to forbid that kind of thing in the United States.

The question arises why Mr. Roosevelt wishes now to circumvent the constitution at these points. The answer must be that he fears he cannot obtain senatorial approval of his alliances as they are arranged or congressional approval of his wars when he is ready to declare them. He knows that the people are not for war and, knowing that, he has every reason to fear that congress will not uphold him if the issue is presented squarely and openly. He could not carry congress with him in the court packing fight because the people were against him and he fears a repetition of that experience now.

The bill seeks to circumvent the constitution at still another point. It goes farther even than previous legislation in authorizing the administration to take property and restrict individual liberty of action. The excuse is the alleged national danger, but the purpose is the same one which has animated the New Deal from the start: The desire to run the country and every one in it without interference.

Mr. Roosevelt has been clever in promoting his designs. When the country was at last becoming aware of the real objective of the New Deal to regiment the nation he seized upon the war to divide the growing opposition. He won to his side the eastern interventionists and the racial and religious brothers of the unfortunate peoples in Europe whom Hitler had overrun. In combination, the New Dealers, the war mongers, and the hyphenates, won Mr. Roosevelt his reelection. The bill now before congress, if enacted, will enable him to pay them all off. The New Dealers will get their long-sought dictatorship and the others will get their war.

The effort four years ago to pack the Supreme court failed. What was done once can be done again. If the American people don't want to be ruled by a military dictator and don't want to have their sons slaughtered and their savings wiped out, the people can still have their way. But this is the last chance. If the bill passes the casualty lists will follow close behind.

THE CITY CHOOSES TO GO BROKE.

The sham victory in the strike staged by unionized employés of the city should not obscure the fact that when the city council passed its 1941 budget it deliberately voted to go broke.

The budget is in technical balance. There are paper assets listed to cover every dollar appropriated. The trouble is that the money won't come in to cover the paper assets. It is inevitable that the city will fall farther behind in paying its bills this year, and quite probable that it will fail to meet pay rolls.

The city is now paying its bills on a basis that would result in any private corporation's being thrown into receivership or bankruptcy. It owes nearly $14,000,000 in unpaid bills and judgments obtained on such bills. The total would be nearer $20,000,000 if the city had not had two fortunate windfalls in the last two years.

Last year it discounted a judgment for more than $3,000,000 against the county government. In 1939, by juggling the dates on which liquor licenses are issued, the council brought in about $3,000,000 in extra and nonrecurring liquor revenue.

It does not seem possible that the city will pull another of these rabbits out of a hat this year. In consequence its unpaid bills will mount, and with them, of course, the price of everything that the city has to buy. The merchants dealing with the city are not simpletons. When they know that they will not be paid for several years they naturally adjust their prices accordingly. If they didn't they would go broke along with the city.

Such credit as there is in the strike affair goes to Mayor Kelly. He stood his ground, but before the matter got to his hands the rubberlegs in the council had already given half their case away. The council, with the knowledge at least of the mayor, reduced the original 10 per cent cut for unionized employés to one on a scale of 4, 7, and 10 per cent.

In order to restore some of the savings they had given away the aldermen extended the pay cut to other than union employés. Some of these latter employés are worth all they were getting. Others obviously are not. There was no distinction made and no attempt to go into the matter on a just basis, whereas it had been well established that the union employés were overpaid by the standards of their own unions.

By talk of the strike the union leaders bluffed the aldermen out of a major part of the proposed savings. By actually going on strike they expected to bluff the mayor out of the rest of them. He didn't bluff. By his courage Mayor Kelly established that strikes which seek to deny essential public services to the people of Chicago will not be tolerated. That is no small service.

THE WAR IN 1941.

If lines were being held in France against the Germans and if they were held as they were before, by millions of seasoned British and French troops, well supported by a constant flow of supplies, the British and Greek successes against Italy might be looked upon as the possible beginning of the ultimate decision. Germany could detach troops to help its ally, Italy, as it detached them to help its ally, Austria, against Italy. But the Italian reverse would show that one of the enemies was weakening. It was such a symptom that forecast the defeat of Hindenburg and Ludendorff in 1918.

Hitler can bolster up Mussolini from the effects of reverses abroad and from any consequent unrest at home. It will be at a price Italy will hate to pay, but it will be effective. Without the allied line in France, the British victories in Libya and the Greek in Albania do not advance the date of decision. The British, indeed, have dispersed whatever threat the Italian movements contained for Suez, and unless the Germans can correct the balance, Italian power in the Mediterranean is on the wane. In this respect dangers to British defense have been lessened and the empire is materially the stronger for that.

The issue of war, however, is not in the Mediterranean at present and it is not in Africa. It is in the English channel and in the island. The question of 1941 is whether the British can make an invasion impossible and also defend their overseas routes and keep their production going. They are holding off a fully prepared enemy and are still arming themselves. To the rearming all American aid has been promised by the American government.

Nothing the Germans have done so far would seem to justify Herr Hitler's promise to the Nazis that he can and will bring the war to a conclusion this year. And, of course, there is less possibility that the British can do so. In 1942 the British, having survived, should be stronger than in 1941, but there is no reason to believe that Germany will be weaker. When it overran the continent it captured and put to use all the weapons of Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Norway, Holland, Belgium, and France, and also the material abandoned by the British expeditionary force at Dunkirk.

A special branch of the Nazi military service, organized before the war, has salvage crews on the battle scenes and an organization which takes over the factories. In 1942 Germany will still have the most numerous army, strongly placed, to defend the continent. All continental industries will be geared to the Nazi war machine and all continental man power will be available as desired, for one purpose or another. This is, and probably will long remain, the most formidable military force in the world. Certainly all our resources working full blast would not be able to catch up with it in 10 years.

Decision by mastery of the air seems remote. The Germans certainly are not losing air power as the British increase their own. Their plane production already is at a level which other nations are struggling to reach. Their training of pilots is on a proportionate scale. A decision which overthrows Hitler and his Nazi government, as is avowed in the war aim of the British and American governments, may have to be enforced by an invading army strong enough to defeat the Germans first in the territories of the occupied countries which must furnish the first battlegrounds. And if decisive battles cannot be fought there, the war must be carried into Germany itself.

These would appear to be, early in 1941, as the only reasonable prospects for the future. Mr. Roosevelt has committed at least himself to the full program of establishing a new order in Europe and in Asia as well. He may see the road to victory open quite clearly. More troubled men do not. Nor do they clearly see what will be the consequence to what remains of civilization when such a struggle has run its full course.

ACHIEVEMENT ON A FARM.

[Kansas City Times.]

Almost any one who believes in America can find inspiration in the story of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gerdes of Lafe, Ark., who have just been awarded the prize for the best record in the midsouth plant to prosper competition.

When they were married, six years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Gerdes had just $25.19 between them. The first year they share cropped and lived in a two room shack. But next year they borrowed and bought 40 acres of farm land. Since then they have added another 40, have built an attractive home, and have found time to increase their family with three attractive children.

One of the interesting facts about the Gerdeses' economy is that they spent only $36.21 last year for food. They have lived well, but everything else was grown on the farm. Mrs. Gerdes has hundreds of quarts of fruit and vegetables canned; Mr. Gerdes kills and cures his own meat. They believe in raising the feed for their live stock, too.

The little 80 acre farm is as nearly self-sufficient as it is possible to be, and at the same time five major sources of income have produced more than $3,000 in income during the last year for the couple.

This record is due to industry and ingenuity, plus exceptionally careful planning and coöperation. But it ought to be an encouragement to hundreds of other young farm couples, merely by proving what can be done.

A University of Utah student threatened his English professor with a "fate worse than death" unless he were given an "A" grade. The fate must have been to have the guy remain in the class.—Cleveland Plain-Dealer.

PRINTS ON ANCIENT SAND.

A great deal of ancient history has been made along the North African coast where British tanks are chasing Mussolini's intrepid marathon runners. But the region is now having its biggest time since fanatical Arab horsemen swept across it, shrieking the praise of Allah and Mohammed, A. D. 641.

* * *

Its earliest name was Cyrenaica, after the city of Cyrene, located on the hump of coast where modern maps place the town of Barca. The ancient Greeks established a flourishing colony there, and bombs from British planes might easily dislodge from the sand covered ruins coins that were in circulation in the 5th century before Christ.

The coins of old Cyrene bear, on one side, a design of a curious plant called silphium. This was an herb extensively cultivated in the region. It was believed to fatten cattle and also to make their flesh tender. It was also used for certain medical purposes. Silphium was Cyrene's money crop, and in the markets of Rome it sold for its weight in silver.

If any quizmaster asks you, "How many soldiers of the revolutionary war are buried in Cook county, Illinois?" you can safely answer, "Three." One of them was David Kennison, whose grave in Lincoln park has not been disturbed, we trust, by the extensive alterations there. The others were Aaron Miner and Eli Skinner, who were early settlers on the stagecoach route now called Milwaukee avenue. They are buried in the same cemetery at Elk Grove, near their old farms.

OUT OF SIGHT, OUT OF MIND?

I haven't thought of you all day!
So surely you'll forgive me now
If, sighing, I remember how
You used to smile, and softly say
"So long" . . . and then go on your way . . .
And what a lovely inner glow
It always gave me just to know . . .
(I haven't thought of you all day!)

I haven't thought of you all night!
Of how you held my pulsing wrist,
Or how you left me, never missed,
Or how you vanished from my sight,
Or how you changed Illusion bright
To grim Reality and tears,
And made me yours for all my years . . .
(I haven't thought of you all night!)

I haven't thought of you at all!
I haven't!—But can I forget
Your mocking eyes when last we met?
Or, even more, how giant tall
You lord it over large and small?
Or how divinely fair you are?
Or how remote, like distant star? . . .
(I haven't thought of you at all!)

History of a Patriotic Song.

"Hail, Columbia," made its debut as an orchestral piece at George Washington's first inauguration in 1789, supplanting the popular "March of the Revolution." It was first called "Washington's March," and then "The President's March."

Mr. Custis, Washington's adopted son, says that the music was composed by a German named Fayles, leader of the John Street theater in New York, in honor of Washington's first visit to that playhouse. Others say that it was composed by Prof. Phyla of Philadelphia, a member of the orchestra at Washington's inauguration. Originally, it lacked words, but verses were set to the air in 1798, when war with France seemed imminent. Joseph Hopkinson, a lawyer with literary talent, wrote the lyric at the request of Mr. Fox, a singing actor at the Chestnut Street theater, Philadelphia, for use at his benefit performance, April 29, 1798. It became an immediate hit.

In the war of 1812, when British war vessels sailed up the Potomac, after the capture of the city of Washington, the home at Mount Vernon was saluted. The ships lowered their foresails, and their bands played "Washington's March," otherwise "Hail, Columbia." Aitcheff.

A Typical Broadway Drama.

Quote:

"A synopsis . . . fails to suggest the long, dull speeches, the fantastically muddled thought, and the all-pervading hate that puts [the author] in the position of sharing the very attribute against which he inveighs. Nor can it suggest the play's vicious weakness as a conscious effort to betray America, thru cheaply aroused emotionalism, into the blood filled pit of war. . . . He never gives any reason why an American should fail to consider American interests first."

NO NEED FOR SYMPATHY.

They said of her, "She hasn't got a thing,"
But they forgot that she had spring,
Yellow jonquils in blue bowls,
Rosewood table, Dutch tea rolls,
Husband one, and children two,
Little house, but great big view;
Skiing when the first snows came,
But none of wealth, and none of fame;
And so they said, "Poor thing! Poor thing!"
Yet I think she had everything!

A Pair of Wooden Women.

Specialists in wooden Indians and other carved ornaments of the 1880s might take a look at, and pass an opinion on, a pair of wooden women [properly, caryatides] on exhibition in the studio of W. E. Fager, 59 East Wacker drive. These figures [torsos on pedestals] stand about 6½ feet high, and are excellent examples of wood sculpture for interior decoration. They probably ornamented some lavish place of amusement in the dim past, but nobody knows their history. Their owner found them in the back room of a cheap restaurant near Clark and Harrison streets.

WHEN MEASLES MAKES ITS DEBUT.

THE malady known as measles makes its appearance each winter. We all sympathize with the bleary eyed patients who present such woebegone countenances. Fever, cough, and the eruption combine to render the victim—at least for a few days—extremely unhappy.

But parents have no right to look upon this nuisance as of no consequence. Not a single case occurs without some danger of complications. The younger the child, the greater the menace. Many vicious types of bacteria may seize upon one of these weakened youngsters and bring on middle ear disease, or difficulty within the kidneys, the lungs, cr the digestive tract.

Altho we do not know the specific cause, many authorities believe that a virus is responsible—one that may serve as the tiller of the soil, preparing the tissues for other organisms. We do know, however, that it is contagious and can be transmitted easily, probably thru infected material that is thrown off during a coughing spell. At any rate, within 10 or 11 days after exposure a susceptible person may come down with the disorder. Three or four days then elapse before the rash appears. If we count back 14 days from the date of the eruption we will come close to the time of the original contact.

In most instances symptoms come on rather slowly. At the outset the child complains of feeling drowsy and tired. Within a few hours—or at most a day or two—the catarrhal manifestations are exhibited. Tears are produced so rapidly that they cannot flow down the normal ducts, thus causing redness and inflammation of the eyes. In addition to bouts of sneezing, there may be a hard, dry cough.

By this time the child has lost his appetite, the tongue is covered with a grayish fur, and the back of the throat may be quite painful. Then the face becomes puffy and swollen and Koplik spots may be seen inside the mouth. These are slightly raised, dark red in color, and are found on the mucous membranes of the cheeks where the folds of tissue contact the back teeth.

Usually the rash is first noted on the forehead, on the sides of the face, and behind the ears. The neck, chest, and trunk follow in order. Finally the arms, hands, and legs may be involved. Sometimes spread occurs quickly, and many a mother will relate that the lesions blossomed all over the body subsequent to a warm bath.

It is customary for the skin to peel during convalescence. This starts as soon as the blotches begin to fade and the process may continue for a week or longer. Ordinarily we do not pay much attention to fever unless it is high. In such circumstances tepid sponges will bring comfort and lower the level.

The main thing to look out for is trouble ahead. A patient who is kept warm in bed, with adequate humidity in the air of the sick room, will rarely suffer further punishment. On the other hand, the eyes, the ears, the nose, and the lungs particularly may be attacked. Pneumonia may come during or after a bout with measles.

Treatment involves good nursing, holding the reserve at a high level and supplying plenty of fluids. Serum from the blood of one who has recovered may prove helpful. The doses need not be large and the antidote may be taken from mother or father if they have had the disease.

In a recent summary Denhoff reports six patients who were given a neutralizing preparation called immune globulin. The only reaction was a slight irritation of the air passages, some coughing, and a temperature of but 99 degrees Fahrenheit. Young individuals who received larger amounts of the serum exhibited no aftereffects whatsoever. None developed a rash.

Among many of our experts in children's diseases the belief is held that in the presence of an epidemic the blood of recovered patients should be used with all who have been exposed.

EAR MALADY.

R. S. writes: What can be done for otosclerosis?

REPLY.

A new type of surgical procedure has been devised which is meeting with some success. The operation, however, is too new to be recommended without reservation. A few physicians believe that diet [particularly vitamin B] plays an important rôle. The object, of course, is to prevent further damage.

LATE FOR SUPPER.

Miss M. writes: My supper is kept hot on a plate over a pot of boiling water. By the time I arrive home the food has dried out. Is it harmful to eat such meals?

REPLY.

Certainly less nutritious than when freshly served. Why not use separate covered dishes for each article, which may be kept warm—not hot. Every one knows that a baked potato, for example, will become soggy under such conditions.

HEMOGLOBIN COUNT.

H. W. writes: Does a blood count of 85 mean anemia?

REPLY.

This figure no doubt refers to hemoglobin and indicates the percentage. While it is somewhat lower than normal, anemia may not be present unless the red cells are proportionately decreased.

ITCH.

R. M. writes: What is the cause of persistent itching all over the body?

REPLY.

There are many causes, chief among which is the presence of bile in the skin. An interference with the function of the liver should be thought of.

PORTRAIT OF A COLLEAGUE.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Everybody in our office, six gents and one lovely gal, is okay, except one of the gents. Among the multiplicity of reasons why he is not okay—with the rest of us, at any rate—these are a few:

His voice is loud, jerky, rasping and nasal, and he loves to use it in speech, song and laughter as if he were trying to set up a counterirritant to an air raid. He is nosy, he listens intently to all our telephone conversations and questions us minutely about what we said and to whom we said it. These delightfully friendly interrogations usually take place when we hang up, but sometimes, perhaps under great emotional strain, he conducts them before we hang up.

He has a houseful of brats about whose gluey whimsicalities he keeps us interminably informed. Once in a while he—this bird I'm talking about—reads a book and becomes so excited over the experience that he brings it down to the office so that he may read to us, in his stuttering, shattering fortissimo, endless passages therefrom. He is a wit and makes up his own puns, quips, and japes, at which he guffaws with an intensity of appreciation little short of unbridled lust.

He is the final authority on all the domestic and foreign, naval, military, social, economic, and political affairs of the United States, Uruguay, Great Britain, Albania, Iraq, the inner and outer Mongolias and, to an even greater extent, of the cosmos beyond the stratosphere. Boy, we could learn a lot of odd things from this gent! He is well meaning, does not steal, drinks in moderation, and hasn't the faintest conception of what good manners—table or any kind—are.

The problem now referred to your readers is this: Which would be the more unethical: to murder this guy or not to murder him? NIL DESPERANDUM.

MACHINIST ON CRUTCHES.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Today I met a machinist who is healthy, robust, and very anxious to work, yet he exists from day to day by the grace of a few friendly souls, altho according to reports there is a shortage of skilled machinists. The answer to this enigma is that this fellow must use crutches to get around and the few places he could visit to ask for work could not see beyond the unfortunate man's handicap. Some one will undoubtedly acquire an asset and do a good turn besides if this man can be given a job. NORTHCENTER.

VISITED BY A GOOD FELLOW.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—I wish to take this opportunity to thank you and the Good Fellows for a very happy Christmas. My wife and I were pleasantly surprised at 9 o'clock Christmas morning to receive that marvelous box of good things you so graciously sent us. I am a pensioner, 65 years old; my wife is 60 years old and blind, and I can hardly tell you how thoroly we enjoyed our Christmas dinner. ARTHUR N. ATWOOD.

THE NEGLECTED DOCTOR.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—In our shopping tour during the holidays my daughter and I were interested in purchasing a card for a fine physician, but to our disappointment we found cards dedicated to every one but a physician. Cards for mothers, dads, sisters, brothers, aunts, uncles, sweethearts, husbands, wives, cousins, in-laws, friends, ministers, etc., but none for the doctors. DELETA WELLS.

WAR TAXES.

Racine, Wis., Dec. 23.—Can you tell me the present location of our national capital—Washington or London?

I note the Roosevelt administration has sent a tax expert over to London to devise ways and means to tax our people to pay for their second war. We haven't got thru paying for the last one.

AN AMERICAN.

FORGOTTEN ISSUES.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Has any one noticed in the chief executive's remarks anent the state of the Union anything pertaining to our domestic problems? What about the debt, the unemployed, the relief situation, etc.? Or are they of such minor importance now they are unworthy of consideration? M. D. PARKER.

COLLEGE MEN AS PILOTS.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—I wonder if all German aviators are college men. I wonder if the pilot in the latest naval air tragedy and all other officers in our air force are college men. If so, I wonder why.

THOS. V. MURPHY.

DEFINITIONS.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—Isolationists and appeasers are names applied disparagingly to those in favor of staying out of the European war by those in favor of going in. F. L. C.

IN PRAISE OF THE PRACTICAL MAN.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Your correspondent, N. F. Shamberg, took a 400 hour training course in the forging shop provided by the government and complains that he can not get employment in industry at his new trade.

It takes four years to learn the fundamentals of most skilled trades. Then you are only a beginner. It takes about five years more of work, study, and clear thinking ability to become a first class artisan.

Why didn't he take a 400 hour course in medicine? The medical profession, I am sure, would welcome him with open arms.

There simply is no short cut whereby a young man can learn a skilled trade in a few hours under the instructions of a politically appointed instructor, and go out on a job and compete with men with knowledge that comes with experience and the skilled hands and body and the ability to coördinate them.

These men are the builders of America: they are the best thinkers, and have ingenious minds, as they have to meet new problems every day and solve them. Our trouble is we have given leadership to learned men and any one who can read and memorize can become a learned man.

Learned men not only don't think; they can't think. They are about as useful as an encyclopedia. They have sold us on the idea they know it all and what we know amounts to nothing. Under their supervision the youth of America can not learn a trade in a few months time. It can't be done. Learned men got America into this awful mess and they can't think of a way to get us out.

They can't think. TRADESMAN.

A PREACHER ON WAR.

Mound City, Ill., Jan. 9.—The President is determined to get this country into this war. The great mass of people who are seldom heard in public surely will arouse themselves and tell the President and the congress that they will not follow this blind leadership into another damnable war as in 1917.

F. D. R. says "Under the Guidance of God." I wonder if he thinks that God is with him or any other man in this business of killing men, making orphans and misery?

Will the forces of Christianity permit themselves to be deceived again as they were in 1917? Every preacher of the land is for defense, but no preacher worthy of the name can justify a foreign war.

Every time we get a Democrat for President we get some hell in addition, and unless we stop this war mongering President we are in for more.

H. E. LOCKARD,
Pastor, First Baptist Church.

ANALOGY.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—After listening to the President's speech and then reading it, I am more and more reminded of the sales manager who was giving a pep talk to a group of salesmen going out to try to sell their products to housewives. His parting shot was "If you can't convince 'em, confuse 'em." HOPE U. KATZMANN.

THE FORGOTTEN DICTATOR-AGGRESSOR.

Wilmette, Ill., Jan. 9.—The President will have to say of Stalin all that he has said of Hitler before he can expect us to believe that our entrance into the war is to preserve the American way of life.

LE COQ.

SLOW CENSORS.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—The receipt within the last few days of a letter postmarked in London in June of 1940 brings to mind a question as to why the United States government does not insist on prompt reading and forwarding of all routine business and personal mail by the British censors at Bermuda.

From correspondents in neutral continental countries I have received, nine months after they were mailed, letters on professional or business subjects.

Since the United States government has elected deliberately to place all European mail to or from American citizens in the hands of the British censors at Bermuda, we might at least insist that they read and forward every letter within three days of receipt, showing time of receipt and dispatch by date stamps.

We have the choice of sending European mail via Vladivostok so that it will go thru to European points without delay, and this routing was in force and working most satisfactorily for a brief period. Apparently at the request of the British embassy we discontinued this practice in order that all American mail might pass thru the British censorship.

In company with many others I have no objection whatever to the British censors reading my personal mail. But if they wish to they should do so promptly so that letters may not be unduly delayed. DOUGLAS C. MCMURTRIE.

SEIZING THE AIR LINERS.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—I can't understand why our President doesn't bring about a state of alarm which would give him power to seize the passenger air liners. The air liners could be rebuilt into bombers in a comparatively short time. Then they could be sent to England for the humane purpose of stemming the savage Nazi air assaults on England, and undoubtedly bring about a defeat of the Nazi reign in Europe.

TRUST ESTATE.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father passed away leaving his property in a trust fund. My sister and I are trustees. The trust fund gives my stepmother a monthly allowance and use of one of the homes as long as she lives. This went into effect immediately after his death.

The trust fund states she is not to receive widow's award. There was $5,000 which was not mentioned in the fund and there was no will to cover [1] so must go thru probate court.

2. Can my stepmother claim widow's award on the $5,000 if the trust fund is produced? If the judge is to decide [3] will my niece and nephew [twins] who are 17 years, children of my dead sister, have to be represented by a lawyer?

S. G.

1. In general the presence or absence of a will has no substantial bearing on the necessity for probate.

2. It is possible that the trust instrument is so worded that her acceptance of benefits would amount to an agreement not to accept a widow's award.

3. Yes, a guardian ad litem will have to be appointed for them.

DEWEY TO TELL DRIVE FOR SHARE OF DEFENSE JOBS

Congressman to Be Guest at Dinner Thursday.

Representative Charles S. Dewey, newly elected member of congress from the 9th Illinois district, will be the guest of honor Thursday night at a dinner in the Chicago Athletic club sponsored by business and civic leaders. At the dinner Dewey will summarize results of his interviews with federal officials in an effort to obtain a larger share of national defense expansions for Chicago.

Representative Dewey.

Ben Regan, investment banker and one of the sponsors of the dinner, said Dewey had been invited because "he is the only man in congress fighting to make Chicago an aviation center." Others who will attend include J. A. O. Preus, former governor of Minnesota, a member of the aviation committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce; Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Nathaniel Leverone, a member of the Chicago Crime commission, and Attorney William C. Boyden.

Regan Heads Committee.

Regan is chairman of the aviation committee of the Illinois development council, to which he was named by the late Gov. Henry Horner.

Dewey also will discuss the need for an additional airport here and will describe means thru which Chicago might interest aircraft industries in locating plants in this area.

Dewey said Chicago received only $20,000 of the 40 million dollars appropriated last year by congress for improved landing fields.

"If we are able to obtain only 5-10,000 of an appropriation for improvement of air facilities," he remarked, "one of two things must be true: Either our airport condition is so perfect that we need nothing, or we are slipping."

Special Committee Formed.

Dewey said he planned to suggest at the dinner the formation of a special committee to study the development of air facilities.

Dewey recently urged all Chicagoans to back a movement to raze about a square mile of blighted area near the downtown area for use as an airport.

Dewey said the federal budget calls for an appropriation of 33½ million dollars for landing fields, but military considerations will determine the sites selected. He said he would endeavor to persuade congress to provide for civil landing fields.

DEMANDS ACTION ON INDIANA ALIEN VOTING CHARGES

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 12 [Special].—Howard H. Meyer, chairman of the American Legion's Indiana committee on un-American activities, urged today that the Indiana legislature lose no time in geting to the bottom of the "alien voter" charges made in a petition expected to be filed this week to contest the election of Henry F. Schricker, Democrat, as governor.

Former Judge Virgil E. Whitaker of Hammond has presented advance copies of the petition to legislative leaders.

Tomorrow night in a meeting here the Republican state central committee will hear Whitaker and inspect his evidence. The committee will decide whether to support the contest in an attempt to seat Glen R. Hillis, Republican, as governor.

Schricker, who has already been certified as the winner by the secretary of stae, will be inaugurated tomorrow.

JAMES JOYCE, 59, IRISH NOVELIST, DIES IN ZURICH

Transfusions of No Avail After Operation.

ZURICH, Switzerland, Jan. 13 Monday (AP).—James Joyce, Irish author whose "Ulysses" was the center of one of the most bitter literary controversies of modern times, died in a Zurich hospital early today despite the efforts of physicians to save him by blood transfusions. He would have been 59 years old on Feb. 2.

James Joyce.

Joyce underwent an intestinal operation Saturday afternoon. For a time he appeared to be recovering. Yesterday his son reported him cheerful and apparently out of danger. In the afternoon the writer suffered a relapse and sank rapidly. His wife and son were at the hospital when he died.

EDUCATED IN DUBLIN.

Joyce was born in Dublin, was educated in Jesuit schools and took his degree at Trinity college. He attained fluency in ten languages and also was a student of medicine, which he intended to practice, but never did.

He was partially blind, and did his writing in longhand, much of it painfully. He left Ireland in 1904, but returned to open Dublin's first movie house, which was unsuccessful. He went back to the continent and lived most of the time in Trieste, then in Austria-Hungary, Zurich and Paris.

Critic of Ireland.

Joyce's first novel, "A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man," appeared in 1916. Then came the essay "The Day of Rabblement," which criticized Ireland's literary aspirations and the Gaelic rennaissance movement.

He began "Ulysses" in 1914 and took seven years to write it. It was published in Paris and immediately was banned in Dublin, London, and New York. Every book he wrote except one, was banned from sale in some corner of the globe, most frequently in his homeland. The ban on "Ulysses" was lifted in the United States in 1933.

Among his other works were "Chamber Music," poems, many of which were set to music; "Dubliners," which was publicly burned in his native city; "Exiles," "Anna Livia Plurabelle," and his last book, "Finnegans Wake."

T. M'EWING, 103, PIONEER AUTO MAKER, IS DEAD

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 12 [Special].—Funeral arrangements were being completed here today for Thomas McEwing, 103 year old pioneer who voted for Lincoln in 1860 and was one of the organizers of the Reo Motor Car company, now Reo Motors, Inc.

Mr. McEwing, who was born in Buffalo, N. Y., and came by boat, train, stage coach, and afoot to live with an uncle near Lansing in 1854, died at his farm home west of the city, last night.

After operating a hardware store in Bancroft, Mich., in 1876, he invented a new type cultivator which was manufactured for a time in a plant he founded at Albion. Later he sold this plant when he moved to Elkhart, Ind., and bought a farm. At another time he built a factory in Bad Axe, Mich., to manufacture his own inventions.

Two sons, Foster, who lived with him, and L. B. McEwing, Chicago, and one daughter, Mrs. Harry Terry of Lansing, survived, in addition to six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Troth of Helen Shoemaker Is Told at Tea

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHEN invitations to tea are received from a family with an attractive young daughter there's bound to be speculation as to whether the party has an added romantic significance. Yesterday the Warren W. Shoemakers confirmed any suspicions their cards may have aroused by announcing the engagement of their daughter, Helen, to Gilbert Hilton Scribner Jr.

Guests at the small tea in the Shoemakers' Hubbard Woods home learned not only of the couple's engagement, but of their plans to be married on March 22. The ceremony will be performed in the Winnetka Congregational church, with the Rev. Samuel D. Harkness officiating.

Miss Shoemaker attended the North Shore Country Day school, Dana Hall, Sarah Lawrence, and Northwestern university. Since making her debut on Christmas day, 1937, she has become an active member of the Chicago Junior league and of the Cercle des Jeunes of the Alliance Française.

Mr. Scribner, too, attended the North Shore Country Day school. In 1939 he was graduated from the Sheffield scientific school at Yale university, where he was a member of St. Anthony and the Whiffenpoofs. An ensign in the United States naval reserve, he was recently graduated from the midshipmen's school at Abbott hall. The senior Scribners live in Winnetka.

After their marriage the young couple will live on the north shore.

Marie Caroline Kraemer to Wed John Van der Vries.

At a tea at their home on Dover street on Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kraemer announced the engagement of their daughter, Marie Caroline, to John N. Van der Vries Jr., son of Mrs. Van der Vries of Winnetka. Miss Kraemer was graduated from Wellesley college. Mr. Van der Vries is a graduate of Wabash college and Northwestern university law school.

At a cocktail party on Saturday afternoon, Miss Mildred Kiely and Burt R. Kiely of Buena avenue announced the engagement of their niece, Dell Marcia Kiely, to Robert Miller Rich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer A. Rich of Evanston.

Miss Kiely attended the Marywood School for Girls and was graduated from Northwestern university, where her fiancé also received his degree. The wedding is planned for September.

Louis A. Deen Takes Bride in California.

From Coronado, Cal., comes news of a marriage there on New Year's day which is of interest to Chicagoans. Dr. John Adams Comstock announces the marriage of his daughter, Bette Comstock Orthwein, to Louis Abbott Dean. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Dean of Winnetka and a brother of Mr. and Mrs. Fuller Dean of Barrington.

Mrs. Dean, who has been making her home in Pasadena for the last five years, is a graduate of the Santa Barbara Girls' school. Mr. Dean was graduated from the North Shore Country Day school and from Yale university. He is engaged in the practice of architecture in San Diego, and he and his bride are at home at 170 F avenue, Coronado.

The month of February will be doubly important for John Slason Mechem, who will finish his law course at the University of Michigan and be married within a span of three weeks. Mr. Mechem and Miss Margaret Chapin White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. White of Montclair, N. J., have selected Saturday, Feb. 22, as their wedding date. The ceremony will take place in Montclair, but beyond that the details are yet undecided.

Young Mr. Mechem, who completes his studies on Feb. 8, will make a home for his bride in the east, probably in Boston. His parents, the John C. Mechems of Lake Forest, have been in Washington since his father, a lieutenant colonel in the officers' reserve corps, was assigned to the office of the assistant secretary of war last fall.

Denise Root to Wed Ernest Eversz Jan. 25.

Only members of the family and a few close friends will attend the wedding and reception on Saturday, Jan. 25, of Miss Denise Root and Ernest W. Eversz. The ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock in the apartment of the bride's father, John W. Root, and Mrs. Root. The Rev. Dudley S. Stark of St Chrysostom's church will read the service.

Mrs. Louis C. Davis will attend the bride, and Donald Cotton is expected from Minneapolis, Minn., to be Mr.

Show Depicts Zestfulness of Life in Greece

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Chicago's Greek-Americans packed the Civic Opera house last night and milled about the lobby seeking extra tickets. The attraction was a production called "Panorama of Greek Life" presented by the Hellenic Orthodox Community of Chicago for the benefit of St. Basil's church and the Greek Red Cross.

The panorama consisted chiefly of scenes from the life of modern Greece. One of the acts, for example, was laid in a Greek restaurant [Greek in the sense that it was actually in Greece] and offered opportunities for song, dance, and general gayety. The dialogue was evidently very clever, for those who could understand the language were convulsed with laughter at regular intervals. And humor of character carried even over the barrier of language.

The production was remarkable for its zestfulness and love of living. Even such incomprehensible sequences as the one that brought Jean Fardoulis into the restaurant singing "On the Road to Mandalay" in English had a zoom about it which stilled all the mind's questions. Some of the Greek folk music was genuinely intoxicating in its wonderful lift and lilt.

Besides interpreting the every day life of modern Greece, the panorama contained references to the country's brilliant past and to its current military exploits.

Credit for a highly sucessful production goes to Mr. Fardoulis, who wrote and directed it, and to such of his co-workers as Bernard Cantor, stage director; Minas Booras, chorus master; Manuel Baroumis, technical director; Nicholas Varzos and Rosalie Saalfeld, conductor and assistant conductor, respectively, and Marion Booras, musical director. Also, of course, to the hosts of singers and actors and actresses who took part and to the numerous committees and patrons whose work insured a good, live, enthusiastic audience.

A program called "Romance of Old Mexico" and consisting of stories, music, and dances with a below the Rio Grande flavor, was presented at the Great Northern theater yesterday afternoon.

A certain Col. Ricardo de Escamilla told of various experiences he had undergone both in and out of Pancho Villa's revolutionary army. At climactic moments Greta Rubio might be called to the stage to sing the song which Col. de Escamilla associated with the story. Or the dancer, Velma Montoya, would seek to increase the Spanish atmosphere by a short turn or two. There were instrumental solos and ensemble numbers, too. The show was lavishly costumed.

To mark the golden anniversary of Ignace Jan Paderewski's American debut, the period Feb. 15 to Feb. 22 has been designated a national Paderewski testimonial week. Hundreds of musical groups will then perform his music or dedicate other music to him. Walter Damrosch is honorary chairman in charge of this observance. The national committee consists of distinguished composers, performers, and teachers of music. Its Chicago members are Frederick Stock and Rudolph Ganz.

Mischa Elman's Unique Tone Evident Thruout His Recital

Yesterday afternoon in the Auditorium theater Mischa Elman, Russian-American violinist, made his only Chicago appearance of the season. His concert, a benefit for the Dorothy Kahn Club for Crippled Children, drew a near capacity audience.

Among the ranking violinists on today's concert stage, Mr. Elman produces one of the most beautiful violin tones—large, rich and pungent. It was constantly in evidence during yesterday's recital. Coupled with the violinist's admirable technique, it provided the afternoon's most enjoyable feature.

It served Mr. Elman most satisfactorily in his performance of Spohr's Ninth Concerto, the noteworthy event of the program. The difficult first and third movements were played with complete and astonishing ease, and the intermediate slow movement benefited from an eloquent simplicity and freedom from rhythmic vagaries nowhere else exhibited during the recital. The concerto won the performer repeated recalls from the audience.

The program opened with a Partita in E minor by Bach, in which the violinist's liberties with tempo and rhythm annihilated the formal structure of the various movements. The sustained flow of beautiful tone from Mr. Elman's violin needed rigorous accentuation to give character and body to the music.

Gabriel Fauré's attractive and occasionally beautiful early Sonata in A major likewise suffered from these faults. Again, the instrumental tone needed stylistic modification—greater limpidity—to suit such a Gallic composition. A more chaste delivery of the melodic line would have prevented the slow movement from slipping over to the sweet side.

A group of works by Dvorak, Tschaikowsky, Mendelssohn, and Wieniawski completed the program, and encores were added to meet the audience's demand. Leopold Mittman was the excellent accompanist.

Spectral Spring.

A spectral spring is spinning
Pink lace across the sky,
Flinging a crocus blanket
Where downy snowdrifts lie.

Ghostly birds are singing.
The trees are budding green,
Wearing a filmy mantle
That only I have seen.

A balmy breeze is hiding
Beneath the blizzard's scream.
This winter's wind is haunted
By the daring of a dream.

About Miss Ruth Gordon and the Pepper books:

We didn't have house servants when I was a child, and sometimes money wasn't too plentiful, but I remember to this day the feeling of commiseration I felt for the Pepper children because they had to rewind Mrs. Pepper's basting thread! To me that was, and still is, the depth of poverty. That scene—of the children being careful not to break the threads—and the one of Mr. King's cook serving Phronsie with a special baked apple are much clearer to me than anything I ever read in Dickens or Shakespeare or Emerson—or Hemingway, Steinbeck, or Mann, for that matter.

Now I wonder if Miss Gordon liked the "Patty" books, too? Think Jean Webster wrote them—"Just Patty" and "When Patty Went to College."

Special Mixture.

The most horrible story of last week concerns the $8 jar of cold cream—a special mixture for dry skins, unscented and white in color, put out by a well known cosmetician, that a Chicago matron bought at a loop cosmetic counter and took home. She left the package in the pantry with some other bundles by mistake. That evening the cook fried the potatoes in the cold cream, thinking it was shortening. The family ate the potatoes, and didn't learn of the mistake until the next day.

Play Returns with Increased Dynamic Power

"LADIES IN RETIREMENT."

Melodrama in three acts and seven scenes by Edward Percy and Reginald Denham. Setting by Raymond Sovey. Costumes by Helene Pons. Directed by Reginald Denham. Produced by Gilbert Miller. Presented by the Theater Guild, in return engagement, in the Harris theater, Sunday evening, Jan. 12, 1941.

A return engagement, after a lapse of several months, is a trying ordeal for any play. No matter how successful the play may have been in its first engagement, the fresh excellences of more recent performances sometimes take the edge off our admiration for a performance already well known and still well remembered.

Quite contrary to the usual rule, however, "Ladies in Retirement" emerged triumphantly from the test of reopening. At midseason, indeed, this tense and swift melodrama of Ellen Creed's murderous misdeed in a lonely old house on the Thames estuary seems even more arresting than before.

The first half of our theater season has brought us no finer craftsmanship than the whole acting ensemble of "Ladies in Retirement." In the unbroken success with which the players evoke the appropriate mood, and set characters and events in their proper relief, neither "There Shall Be No Night" nor "The Time of Your Life" can be called superior.

Flora Robson, dressed always in black and moving thru the play like the uncomprehending agent of a wicked fate, has not allowed repeated performances and months of touring to rob her acting of its dynamic power. In the first scene of the last act, at the point of crisis when her nephew reveals his knowledge of her crime, she attained last night a malevolent force that made the climax of the action more horrendous than I had seen it to be before. Over and above the expert realism of her acting, there is an indefinable quality of abstract artistic form, by means of which makes each scene attain its proper weight in preparing for the ultimate crisis.

Wonderful as Miss Robson's projection is, it is scarcely more remarkable than the achievements of Estelle Winwood, the irrational wild-eyed sister with a fixation upon her telescope; or of Patrick O'Moore, as the flip and affable nephew whose instincts are basically so much more criminal than those of his aunt; or of Isobel Elsom as the one-time chorus girl who trusts Miss Robson too far. The other players retain their effectiveness, and Rosanna Seaborn has brought her characterization of the maid fully into line.

Green Is Color Excitement in Spring Prints

BY REA SEEGER.

Incoming printed matter in fashions includes the newest daytime dresses, exotically colored clinging evening gowns and the bolts of eye-catching new materials. Wander among any yardage assortments and feel the tug of spring fever now. There is still a brilliant array of imports, those exquisitely beautiful prints that are so individually patterned.

Bow-knots are still sentimentally attractive whether they are small or large, whether they are used for a close pattern or spaced dramatically wide apart with lots of contrasting dark background color for accent.

Black and white, the new high fashion navy and white, with all kinds of stunning brown and white prints top the list of always good finds. The clash of red with yellow no longer seems a bit exuberant. There's something about this cheerful red and yellow combine that goes with everything in a winter wardrobe. It's a spicy combination that will revive the most wilted winter wardrobe.

The biggest color excitement is over green. There isn't a tint or shade missing, a shade for every personality is assured. From the lime or tender spring greens thru the brilliant emerald and Kelly greens to the stunning bronze and cypress tones, these spring greens have everything!

Next to green are the flattering shades of the "blond" persuasion; light beige, subtle castor color, grege tint which is a most effective half and half combine of gray and beige, and the exciting darker tones of buckskin leather, russet, and cinnamon.

Cooled with white, contrasted with scarlet, or vivid green, smoothed down with tangerine, teamed with deep brown, accented with navy and soot black, these blond shades are used for the new printed silk by the yard and in the costume ready to wear out. This vanguard of spring prints is well worth a careful inspection and selection, for they are disappearing almost as soon as they are displayed.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

For quite a long time there has been a steady sale of those darling little pill boxes to carry in the purse. These are a bit reminiscent of the snuff boxes of another era, and they're lovely gifts for women who must carry medicine in their purses. Some are jeweled and some are plain, and all are attractive.

Now, we're told, smelling salts are back in favor. Not for fainting spells, since that is a most unfashionable ailment these days, but for the common, cursed cold. We don't suppose a whiff of smelling salts has any therapeutic value—we wouldn't know—but it is true that a stuffy head feels better for a quick sniff. Some business women, too, who work in offices that aren't as airy as they'd like them to be, find that a few whiffs now and then perk them up when they're tired.

There is one little purse kit of smelling salts that we're particularly fond of. The bottle is small, tucked into an outer leather case. The scent is that of one of the oldest and most famous colognes. The salts retain their aromatic strength for a long time, since the bottle is tightly stopped. And you've no idea how refreshing they are—when you have to cope with crowds in stuffy places, or when you've a cold or you're tired.

Who Is This Girl?

By Helen Topping Miller

[Copyright 1941: By Helen Topping Miller.]

INSTALMENT I.
TOO SOFT.

It was at Harp Greenlee's table that Dan McCullough turned suddenly and found himself looking straight down into a pair of blue eyes so still and deep, that he caught his breath as a man does before he plunges into a pool.

He was aware of hair the color of ripe wheat, caught back with a gilt band, of a red, sensitive mouth and a small firm chin. But it was the eyes that held him. They had a shy look, a far look and a very young look, too.

This girl said, gravely, "How do you do? Nobody bothered to introduce us. I'm Storm. Who are you?"

He smiled at her. "Back among the cactus and the rattle snakes, they call me Mac."

"Hello, Mac."

"Hello, Storm."

And it had begun, like that.

He had not wanted to come to the dinner at all. And Lynn Parrish, Harp Greenlee's top hand, had frankly rebelled.

"I look like the devil, Mac," Parrish, who was called Lank, on San Mateo, had mourned, "Why do I have to show at this shindig, anyway? Harp doesn't want us. He's just being polite. Bet you a blue chip I tip over something into some society woman's lap!"

"You don't look bad. For a rented outfit, that suit does pretty well. Quit jerking your pants up. You're not wearing boots."

"That's another thing," grumbled Parrish, who was lean and long, with the saddle complexion and narrow waist of the man who has lived mostly on horseback. "Every time I step in these shoes I feel like I'm going to break an ankle. You go, Mac. Tell Harp I'm sick. I didn't come to New York to go to dinner parties."

"Harp told us to show up. And when Harp wants something he gets it. After all, we work for him."

"We run a ranch for him. We ship his calves and get his sheep sheared and kick his herders around. But that doesn't signify that we've got to wear a lot of fancy clothes and drink coffee out of little cups that don't hold a jigger. I went to one of Harp's parties once, out on the place. Time that Gertrude came out with those Frenchies, in Harp's plane. I know what it will be like."

"This is different." McCullough snapped up his braces, shook down his carefully creased trousers over his shining pumps. "How about giving a man a chance at that mirror, or do you have to admire yourself some more?"

"If you think I'm admiring what I'm looking at—only hope I've got is, that the boys on San Mateo never hear about this."

"Quit your grumbling and straighten your tie. We're supposed to be a couple of gentlemen. We're invited to Harp's apartment. There'll be ladies there, and for gosh' sake, don't put your hands in your pockets!"

"I can't talk to ladies," the long cowboy had been dubious. "What'll I talk about?"

"They'll take care of that. They'll ask you if you really ride bucking bronchs, and are there any Indians around, and isn't it glamorous—out under the stars—all that stuff."

"And then I tell 'em that I'm head nurse to a lot of buck sheep!"

"Tell 'em anything, but make it sound exciting. And don't pour your coffee out into your saucer. You don't use bunkhouse manners in a New York apartment."

"Listen, Mac, you know I didn't want to come to this town! I'm all right in Harp's office, telling him about wool and prickly pear feed, and water, but this society stuff gets me thrown and hamstrung. And why didn't you tell me you'd bought one of those monkey suits?"

"I've had this outfit a long time." Since his college days, but Mac was not letting himself think of those any more. Fortunately he'd kept his trim waist, his muscular slenderness of body. "Every time I come to New York Harp expects me to show up at a party, and I have to do credit to San Mateo."

"Harp hasn't been a dude all his life," Parrish remembered. "There was a time when he had to throw his own woolies and peel 'em same as anybody. Now we ship wool and mohair and beef enough so he can have caviar and airplanes and live like Rockefeller. I sure do feel perilous in these breeches, without any belt."

They rode the elevator down, Parrish clutching the new hat that he hated. It had a totally inadequate brim and not enough crown to be called a hat at all, in his estimation. He worried at it for a dozen blocks, but Dan McCullough sat back in his seat and wondered how long it would take him to make Harp Greenlee see that the situation at San Mateo ranch was serious?

Harp had come such a long way since the day, 30 years before, when with Humphrey Dane he had ridden into the wild Devil's river country and paused, where now his thousands of sheep and cattle fed.

Harp had owned little then, save a good horse and a hundred dollars in gold. Then he had been sinewy and sunbaked and tough. Now Harp was getting old, soft with riches, and San Mateo was nearly three thousand miles away.

Definitely, McCullough had told himself, as they entered that rich apartment, Harp was getting soft. The man who advanced to meet them was no longer the Harp Greenlee of five, or even two years ago. This Harp Greenlee gleamed in glossy linen, with the inevitable big blue diamond on his left hand. His hair was thinning and whitening, there was a roll of flesh above his collar, and the saddle brown in his face had given way to a plethoric flush. But his eyes were still coolly gray and quizzical and shrewd, and had the white sunlines around them as of old, and his voice boomed as heartily as ever.

"Hello, boys, so you found your way did you? Mac, here's a lady who wants to meet you. Bee—This is Dan McCullough—Mrs. Abney. And this other chap is Parrish—Lynn Parrish, isn't it?"

"Call him Lank," McCullough said, "He's spent years trying to forget his real name."

There were 8 or 10 people there. McCullough shook hands, murmured the conventional greetings. He heard one woman in a silver dress exclaim, "Harp, you don't mean that good looking man is a cowboy?"

"Who? Mac?" Harp's voice could no more be subdued to the acoustics of an apartment than the roar of a .45. "Mac's my superintendent. He's Yale or Cornell or something, but he's about over that."

"Cocktail, sir?" said a voice at Mac's elbow.

"Hello, Moran," Mac grinned at the serving man, then edged around a group to keep an eye on Lank Parrish, who had gulped one cocktail and waited while Moran poured another.

The people in the room, Mac was thinking, were somehow all one pattern. Women with white shoulders and careful coiffures, bracelets flashing on their arms, faces made up to reveal beauty but not one trace of emotion; men rather stiff looking, iron gray, cut to the steel and stone pattern of the city.

Harp looked like these men now, except that there lingered about him something of the ruthlessness of wild winds, something of the defiant recklessness of a country so vast, so lusty, that it made men over into its own image. But Harp was forgetting a lot. Forgetting, in luxury, the smell of a fire of mesquite wood, and how sharp the thorns of the ocotilla can be, working under a blanket. Even forgetting the feel of a horse between his knees, of white sun on his shoulders, forgetting the smell of sage brush and cedar and alkali dust.

The money that San Mateo earned for Harp was going into these rich rugs and gilt chairs and mirrors down to the floor. It was going into Wall street and a villa at Palm Beach and the private plane that Harp hired a quiet young ex-aircorps man to fly for him. And too little of it was going back into the ranch. Somehow, Mac had to make Harp see that.

And it wasn't going to be easy, because even in his lean days, when life on San Mateo had been a fight to build up a herd and a flock, they told how Harp had loved the flesh pots.

The Odor of Violets

By Baynard Kendrick

[Copyright 1941: By Baynard Kendrick.]

FINAL INSTALMENT.

[Copyright, 1941, by Baynard Kendrick.]

"Now let's follow Chell," said Duncan Maclain. "She picked up Babs and drove her back to Hartford. She made previous arrangements by telephone—as she did with my abduction night before last—to have the car intercepted on the way. I wondered at the time I was abducted how that truck knew exactly the time and place to stop Chell's car.

"Babs' abductors drove her around while Rutgers took Chell back to The Crags and rejoined them. Babs was put in a vacant room over Bunny's garage—set far apart from the house on the side of the hill. They left her there, doped, and paralyzed with fear. At The Crags, Chell decided to do a little more investigating while the family was away."

"And nearly added Mrs. Tredwill to her victims," put in Col. Gray.

"She was cornered in the workshop." The captain snapped his fingers irritably. "She was the only one in the house besides Norma and the servants. It was infernally dense of me not to suspect her right away."

"I like it when you're dense," said Spud, grinning. "It bolsters my falling ego tremendously."

Maclain began to tick off points with his fingers. "Don't forget that the previous afternoon Chell had sent all the servants away except Bella, who she thought was working with her. She knew that Norma had been in Paul's apartment, for she saw her there. She took a look at the parcel Norma had brought home, and knew that Mrs. Tredwill had rescued Babs' galoshes from Gerente's hall. That suited her fine, for Norma must have thought, as every one else would think, that Babs had run away."

Col. Gray said thoughtfully: "She must have been on to Bella. Why did she pick such a brutal way?"

"On to her?" Maclain repeated. "What did this clever lady think of a co-worker who had vouched for a member of the FBI? Bella knew her peril and was watching Chell closely. The day I got to The Crags we were down in Gil's workshop. I wanted to see if there were lingering traces of perfume on Gil's plans, indicating that they'd been traced. I'd just put it over by pretending that I was smelling the plans for gasoline——"

"Gasoline?" asked Renna.

"I'd wiped my hands with it," explained Maclain. "It was lucky I did so, for Chell was with us. If she'd suspected that I was tracing down an odor of violets I'd have gone out with Bella in some similar pleasant way."

Rena shuddered.

"I heard Bella on the stairs," Maclain continued, "and thought she was spying on me. I know differently now. She was watching Chell, who got her that same afternoon. Chell had a zipper housecoat on—and deliberately picked a sanguinary method of killing the girl. Chell stripped the housecoat off and left it in the hall, killed Bella, ran down to her room, where she took a shower, and a few minutes later was downstairs with her housecoat back on. Remembering that housecoat was a final point which made me certain I had to get Chell."

"God above!" breathed the colonel. "I'd have taken an oath that murder was committed by a man."

"She did everything to make you think just that. Col. Gray, altho I don't believe she intended to behead the girl. The executioner's ax she used was heavier than she knew—and sharp as a scalpel, too."

The colonel stood up and said, "Before I go I'd like to know how you located Barbara Tredwill so suddenly."

"By asking myself why any one would drag away an untrimmed Christmas tree, unless it was to obliterate footsteps in the snow. Babs escaped, Col. Gray. She recognized where she was as soon as she got outside of Bunny's garage. She dashed down the hill, across the road, and up the other hill toward her home; but she was weak from her ordeal, and Rutgers caught her. He took her back to the garage, hurried over to the Tredwill house and effaced his and Babs' footsteps with the Christmas tree.

"Those footprints must have been desperately incriminating for one reason—because they led to a hiding place which was very near. The nearest place was certainly not Bunny's house—so it must have been in the quarters of Bunny's chauffeur. He came to talk with Chell late last night after Babs escaped. Chell had admitted him thru the theater stage door. He was leaving when he encountered Dreist and me. I'd already placed him as one of the band."

"How?"

"By the odor of violets, colonel—left from Chell's trip to New York with scented tracings in Bunny's car."

Eversz's best man. After a motor trip, the couple will be at home in a little house near Barrington.

The numerous parties which were to have preceded the wedding have been postponed because of the recent death of the bride's mother, Mrs. Dudley Root.

Miss Constance Donaldson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lockhart Donaldson of Evanston, will become the bride of Allan F. Wilson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson of Evanston, at 8:30 o'clock on Jan. 18 in St. Luke's Episcopal church in Evanston. The Rev. Frederick L. Barry will officiate at the ceremony, which will be followed by a reception at the Georgian hotel. After their return from a wedding trip to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Mr. Wilson and his bride will live in Evanston.

Miss Jean and Miss Patsy Donaldson will be their sister's only attendants. Mr. Wilson's father will be his best man and Dr. Lincoln Bruce Donaldson, brother of the bride, and George Woodland, Mr. Wilson's brother-in-law, will be ushers.

Many Chicagoans Attend Inaugural Ball Tonight.

Only once every four years one gets a chance to dance at an inaugural ball, and many Chicagoans are taking advantage of the opportunity tonight in the armory at Springfield. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of arrangements for the ball, and Mrs. Ryerson are giving a dinner at Fisher's inn in Springfield tonight for the members of the inaugural ball committee. Other Chicagoans on the committee are George McKibbin, John MacLeish, Charles F. Cutter, and M. Haddon MacLean.

Among others who are in Springfield for the festivities are Mr. and Mrs. George Bates, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sims, Ray Prescott Johnson, Henry Pope Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. William Pope. Stuart Logan and his daughter, Lorraine, the John B. Drakes, the Orville Taylors, and Mrs. Jacob Baur are visiting friends in or near Springfield and will attend all of the inauguration ceremonies.

Chicago Russians Greet the New Year Tonight.

Snoeym gogom! Happy New Year! Today Chicago Russians, with a cup of zzenka in one hand and a good old fashioned American noise maker in the other, will toast the Russian New Year. Champagne corks will pop, confetti fly, and balloons bounce in many a Russian home tonight just as they did in American homes 12 days ago. The Russian Gregorian calendar, which differs those 12 days from our Julian calendar, deserves the credit for giving Russians abroad two New Year's days.

Col. W. W. Yaschenko's party at the Yar will be an authentic Russian celebration. Prince and Princess Rostislav, Mr. and Mrs. Nicolas Starosselsky, Prince and Princess Galitzine, Mr. and Mrs. George Voevodsky, and Prince Cantacuzene are among those who will join the colonel in a zzenke toast to the New Year. The George Artamanoffs who always are part of this group, moved to Philadelphia last week.

Jan. 13, 1941.

Universal day—Do the accounts today. Attend to details.

Vocations—Those born on the 13th of any month have a four vocation number, but the combination of the one and three gives more variety. The one is for independence, originality and initiative while the three gives the more social and expressive qualities to this combination. So we take the order and system of the four and add these other qualities as being behind the four. We look for sane, stable qualities, but with more independence than usually found in the single digit four, and with a more expressive personality to be used in the vocational pursuits. We have an excellent example of this combination in Kay Francis who was born on Jan. 13. Others born on the 13th of the mouth are: Jesse L. Lasky, Gene Raymond, and Phillips Lord.

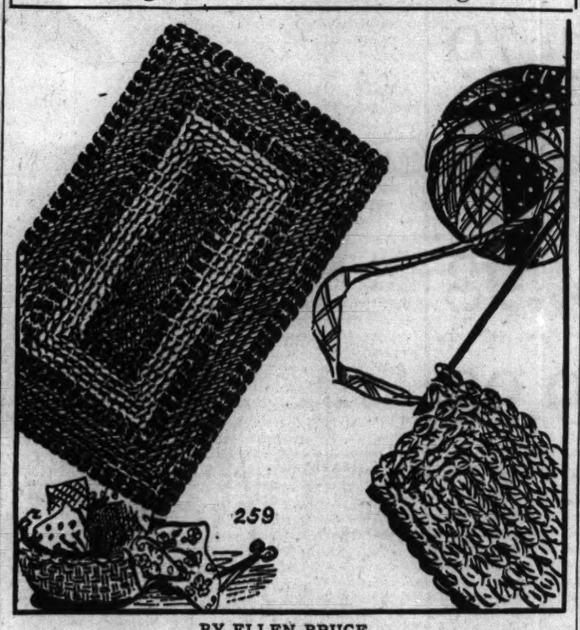
Rug Crocheted from Rags



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

There is hardly a crochet worker who has not made at least one rug. The rectangular article made from castoff rags creates a good looking scatter rug to be used in any part of the house. If a single color is desired, the rags may be cut in strips and dyed before being worked up. Approximately 5 pounds of rags are required for a small rug three by four feet.

For instructions in crocheting the rectangular rag rug, No. 259, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the needlework bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

Some players are so gullible that the only way they can avoid being hoodwinked is to stay out of expert games. Their own bidding being completely orthodox, they expect the same sort of bidding from opponents. Consequently, a psychic is likely to throw them into utter confusion.

It was downright shameful for North-South to be talked out of a game in the following deal.

West, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.
Rubber bridge.

NORTH
♠ K Q J 9 5 2
♥ 10 6 5 4
♦ 9 6
♣ 8

WEST
♠ 7 4 3
♥ A K 7 3
♦ Q J 7 5
♣ K 6

EAST
♠ 8 6
♥ Q J 9 2
♦ 10 4 3
♣ Q 10 7 5

SOUTH
♠ A 10
♥ 8
♦ A K 8 2
♣ A J 9 4 3 2

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	2 clubs
Pass	Pass	Pass

It is difficult to decide which of the two partners, North or South, deserves the greater censure for the ridiculous two club contract.

North may be excused for failing to bid one spade over one heart, altho, considering his excellent six card suit, an overcall was decidedly preferable to a pass. A suit such as North's spade suit will almost always produce five tricks, hence there is no great danger in overcalling at the one level even when vulnerable. East's psychic spade response speaks for itself. East later explained that he "had a hunch" that the opponents might be able to go far in spades and that he had tried to take the wind out of their sails at the outset.

The first terrible error on the part of the North-South team occurred when South made only a simple overcall of East's spade bid. South's two club bid did not come close to describing the strength of his hand. He should have chosen the far more descriptive take-out double. It was the lack of this double that North later seized upon as an alibi for failing to bid spades. North maintained that if he bid two spades over South's two clubs, South would view this as a cue bid, showing merely spade control and implying a fit in clubs. North added that this might lead to the sort of bidding battle in which repeated spade bids by himself would merely elicit repeated club bids from South.

In simple fairness, there was a certain amount of logic in this view, but not nearly enough to justify North's pass. North should have reasoned that with his partner holding the strength for a vulnerable overcall, his own spade suit was strong enough to warrant not merely one, but two bids, even in the face of East's original spade response. Moreover, altho North had no assurance against East's holding something like A-10-x-x of spades, the situation certainly was one to raise a strong suspicion and to demand investigation, this especially in view of the fact that North had failed to mention his excellent spade suit over West's one heart.

Needless to say, East was delighted with the two club bid that came around to him, and despite his trump support for partner's opening heart bid, was not inclined to look a gift horse in the mouth. It was highly significant that West had not been able to raise the psychic spade bid [which, of course, he would not know was psychic] and East had no intention of giving the opponents another opportunity to increase or correct their contract. Also, needless to say, South had no difficulty about making two clubs with overtricks. But in view of the five odd in spades that could easily have been made, this was scarcely a notable victory.

High School Choral Groups Compete in 4 Programs This Week

Plans for the sixteenth annual choral competition festival of the Chicago public high schools, which will be held this week, were announced yesterday by Dr. Helen Howe, director of music for the public schools. Approximately 5,000 pupils forming 60 choruses will take part in four separate performances.

The high schools of the north section will give the first performance tomorrow evening in the auditorium of Lane Technical High school, 2501 Addison street. The other performances to be held are: west and northwest sections, Wednesday evening at Marshall High school, 3250 Adams street; southwest section, Thursday evening at Harrison High school, 2850 West 24th street, and south section, Friday evening at Hyde Park High school, 6220 Stony Island avenue.

Dr. Howe said that choruses given a superior rating in the contest will take part in the sectional contest to be held next spring for high schools in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1941: By The Chicago Tribune.]

There are two kinds of fritters, those composed of pieces of meat, fruit, or vegetable dipped in batter and deep fat fried, and those made by combining chopped meat, fruit, or vegetables with a batter before frying. The flour, milk, and egg batter is common to both.

Fritters made from vegetables and meats make a luncheon or supper main dish; fruit fritters almost always are served, with a sauce, as dessert. Banana fritters are an exception. They appear as frequently with the meat course as they do at the end of a meal.

How to Fry Fritters.

Fritters should be cooked in deep fat heated to 350-365 degrees. As soon as they have browned well, they should have finished cooking. Drain on absorbent paper, and serve hot. This method of cooking is suitable for all types of fritters.

Batter for Fritters.

Sift together 1 cup flour and ½ teaspoon salt. Beat two eggs and add ⅔ cup milk [⅓ cup plus 2 tablespoons]. Add to flour and stir until smooth. Dip pieces of food in the batter and fry in deep fat at 350-365 degrees.

Slices of meat, whole fresh boiled shrimp, oysters, slices of tomato, cooked whole carrots or parsnips, cauliflower sections, halves or quarters of banana, peach halves, slices or chunks of pineappel are some favored foods to be dipped in such a batter and fried. For fruit fritters the cook may like to add a tablespoon of sugar to the batter.

Chopped cooked vegetables, small pieces of drained canned fruit, flaked fish, or choyped meat may be folded into the same kind of batter and dropped from a spoon into the deep, hot fat.

Usually vegetable fritters are served sauceless [but corn fritters and maple sirup are wonderful!]; meat fritters take white sauce, chill sauce, catsup, or horseradish; fruit fritters a sweet dessert sauce.

Pineapple Cheese Fritters.

Add a tablespoon of sugar and 2 tablespoons grated cheese to the fritter batter recipe. Fold in ¾ cup sliced pineapple cut into small pieces. Drop from a spoon into deep hot fat and cook until golden. Drain and serve hot with this sauce: Blend 1 teaspoon cornstarch, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ cup orange juice, ½ cup pineapple juice and cook until thickened and smooth.

'Sister' Jumper Dresses

JUNIORS' JUMPER DRESSES.

Sister dresses for junior misses are easy to make if you have matching patterns. Today's two designs create identical frocks, the only difference being the sizes in which the patterns are available. A nice scheme is a navy blue woolen jumper with a pale pink or a snowy white washable silk or cotton blouse.

Style No. 2600 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6, and 8. Size 4 requires 1⅛ yards of 39 inch material for jumper; ¾ yard for blouse.

Style No. 2832 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19, and 28, 30, 33, 35, and 37 inch bust measurements. Size 15 requires 2¾ yards of 39 inch material for jumper; 1¾ yards for blouse.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred — wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the winter Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Diary of a Movie Correspondent.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 12.—Sunday—A column in the morning, and in the afternoon Bob Hope drives by to take me to the Los Angeles Open at the Riviera. Our young daughter, who thinks Bob is the most wonderful guy in the world since she saw "The Ghost Breakers," comes out to the car to meet him and seems properly thrilled. . . . Hope knows everybody on the course, and we follow Dutra, Wood, and Snead.

Monday—Half a morning of work and then to Lakeside, determined to whip a dozen strokes off the game by imitating the ease of yesterday's tournament players. . . . In the evening we go with R. Carroll to see Joe E. Brown in "The Showoff" and darned if it isn't a first rate performance. Joe E. almost always resists the impulse to have a field day and turns in a job that would rate anywhere. We are pleasantly surprised to see Helen Chandler playing the girl.

Tuesday—To the 20th Century-Fox lot for a call on Jane Withers and her mother. Ever since show business began, I suppose, people have groaned and cursed at stage mothers. Mrs. W. gets my vote as a model. She is always at the studio, perched on a high stool and intently watching every scene her daughter makes. But she never makes a crack or a suggestion or a fuss. Her common sense has made Jane a natural, cheery girl instead of the freak she might have been after all these years of stardom.

Wednesday—Writing all day, and then to Gregory La Cava's apartment. La Cava is about to start shooting a picture at Universal and he is still laid up with an injured foot. He and Vicki Baum have the shooting script shaping up, but the usual casting trouble lies ahead. Same old problem—leading men hard to find. Irene Dunne is the girl, and the two men will be brothers.

Thursday—To Columbia and on the set of "They Dare Not Love." It's a steamer and George Brent and Martha Scott are refugees from Austria. I ask Brent if the studio boat suits him and he says the upkeep would be a little too expensive for him. He's now preparing his yacht—having it scraped and refitted—for next summer's Honolulu race. I am told afterward that Brent has definite plans to quit movies in a year or two; to retire and sail the seven seas.

Friday—To Paramount to see a couple of old Bob Hope films, and to Metro with Jack Mahon to give Jack a goggle at L. Turner, H. Lamarr, and T. Martin rehearsing a number for "Ziegfeld Girl." Metro, which just announced eight millions' profit, figures this picture will keep it in the black for 1941.

Good Morning!

"He skates better on promises than Sonja Henie does on ice. . . ."

No, the "he" isn't the one you and I are both thinking of. . . . "He" is a district attorney. The chap who thus has his number is a newspaper reporter, best known to his familiars as "Stu" Woodrow. . . .

If your inclination leads you Oriental-theater-ward, be assured that you'll find waiting for you on the screen this week a right good little newspaper drama that doesn't pull its punches and, moreover, has in store for you surprises, humorous and otherwise.

Thru the eyes and ears of "Stu"—hardboiled as they make 'em—and Jeff Flavin, a cub fresh from journalism school, clear-eyed, enthusiastic and with white banners flying, you view a lot of dirty linen. But there's a difference in viewpoints. "Stu" knows it's there and doesn't think there's anything to be done about it. . . . Jeff also knows it's there but he's darned sure "Stu's" wrong—tho the latter is his idol and the reason that he, Jeff, had decided to become a member of the Fourth Estate. . . . Because—away back when Jeff was a kid, "Stu" had been enthusiastic, too, and, thru his brilliantly written columns had fired a youngster with ambition to go forth and do likewise. . . .

Plenty happens and all of it's interesting. Not because the story matter has a great deal that's new to offer, but because it is intelligently and wittily compiled and splendidly presented.

Lloyd Nolan and Frank Albertson are as human and credible as all get out. . . . Other reporters are believably portrayed as is a managing editor done by Robert Armstrong who has been absent from the screen too long. Other male players are fine. Doris Davenport is excellent sometimes and amateurish at others. But she's larnin'! The "atmosphere" is a heap more newspaper office-ish than that of a lot of more widely heralded press pix I've encountered. . . . SO—I think you'll like "Behind The News." Really do!

See you tomorrow.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

This is first call for Chicago's Golden Gloves boxers.

All amateur boxers who wish to compete in the 14th annual tournament sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., may now register for the sectionals and the Chicago city tournament. Novice boxers will compete in two tournaments, the first on the south side in St. Sabina's gymnasium and the other on the north side in Loyola university gymnasium.

Qualifiers in these tournaments will be eligible to enter the city championships. This tournament, which was held for the first time last year, crowns Chicago's eight champions and sends them into the Tournament of Champions. Until 1940 Chicago and the Catholic Youth organization were permitted to send 40 boys, five complete teams, into the Tournament of Champions. Now Chicago is limited to eight boys and is on a parity with the other 43 cities associated in the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions. This event will be held in the Chicago Stadium Feb. 24, 25, and 26.

Hold City Meet in Coliseum.

In the rearrangement of the Golden Gloves schedule the city championships now are emphasized. Each winner receives a Golden Glove and the team is outfitted for competition in the Tournament of Champions. The city tournament will be held Feb. 17, 18, and 19 in the Coliseum.

General admission for the first and second nights is $1.10. For the city finals Feb. 19 reserved seats will be sold at $1.65 as well as general admission tickets. Reservations now will be accepted for Feb. 19. Make your check or money order payable to the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and send your request to the Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower.

At the conclusion of the finals, which follow the Tournament of Champions, a squad of 32 boxers will be named for the 14th intercity Golden Gloves matches with New York. These will be held in the Chicago Stadium March 26.

Boys Examined Twice.

The immediate problem, of course, is enrolling Chicago's army of amateurs, both novice and experienced boxers. Entry may be made on the blank which is printed today on the next page. Each boy will receive instructions by mail and will be assigned to a preliminary examination. Each also will receive a parental consent card which must be signed by his parent or guardian if he is under 21 years of age. This card must be presented at the preliminary examination.

Those boys who pass the rigid physical examination then will be assigned to one of the tournaments. A second examination is given on the evening the boy reports for his first bout.

The first preliminary examination will be held Jan. 27 in the C. Y. O. gymnasium, 31 East Congress street. Letters will be sent to the C. Y. O. boxers this week inclosing parental consent cards. Other examinations

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

SECTIONAL pride has nothing to do with the item, of course, but the total score in the last two National Football league championship games has been West, 100; East, 0; compiled on Green Bay's 27 to 0 victory over the New York Giants in 1939 and the Bears' 73 to 0 humiliation of Washington. . . . If war with Japan comes, the Cubs' spring training field on Catalina Island may become a navy drill ground. . . . The new airport at Catalina is 1,550 feet above sea level, well over the fog line. . . . The altitude of San Clemente Island, the navy base near Catalina, is only 700 feet and is in the prevailing fog banks. . . . Jimmy Dykes was prepared to make a serious speech, probably his first, at the recent banquet of the Chicago Baseball Writers' association when he was interrupted and finally eliminated by one of the acts on the program. . . . "If some one only would interrupt me when I start talking to the umpires it would save me some dough," cracked Dykes. . . . The Pittsburgh Steelers professional football club will be known as the Iron Men next season. . . . Alexis Thompson, the 26 year old millionaire owner of the team, plans to put on bigger and better gridiron shows than George Marshall has presented in Washington. . . . If he does only 50 per cent as well as Marshall he will prove a valuable newcomer to the National league. . . . Bob Suffridge, All-American guard from Tennessee, has been rejected for army service because of flat feet. . . . The Washington Senators probably will have the fastest team in baseball next season with a roster that includes Ben Chapman, George Case, Buddy Lewis, Roger Cramer, and George Archie. . . . Archie is the new first baseman from Seattle. . . . He is the champion base stealer of the Pacific Coast league and was chosen as the most valuable player in that organization by the Sporting News.

The morning after the Rose bowl game Maj. Jones had charge of tickets for the tour of the movie studios. . . . King Clancy, National Hockey league referee, is the only one of the league's staff who gives Al Melgard, Chicago Stadium organist, a tumble when he plays villain music as the referee skates out before each period at Blackhawk games. . . . Be Yourself.

In our eagerness to hit some mark,
Some remote and shining star,
We sometimes neglect the vital need
Of being just what we are;
We try to scale some dizzy height
Urged by ambition's thrall,
And forget to be the simple self
That lies within us all.

We feel that with ambition
Must come some new veneer,
In aspiring to be a big shot
We forget to be sincere;
But it seems to me no greater boon
Of glory, fame, or pelf
Can come the way of any man
Than to be always just himself!

17 TO OPEN FIGHT FOR HOPPE'S CUE CROWN TODAY

Begin $20,000 Tourney with Four Matches.

Pairings

1 p. m.—Otto Reiselt vs. Paul Lewin.
2:30 p. m.—Jake Schaefer vs. Clarence Jackson.
8 p. m.—Joe Chamaco vs. Earl Lookabaugh.
8:30 p. m.—Welker Cochran vs. Lou Kenney.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The world's three cushion billiard tournament, a $20,000 ivory and baize marathon which will endure thru Feb. 12, opens this afternoon in Bensinger's arena, 131 South Wabash avenue, with a field of 17 cueists striving to take away the No. 1 crown of the game from William Frederick Hoppe of New York City. Three matches will be decided every afternoon, except in today's first program, which will consist of only two, with two more scheduled for each night.

A total of 153 matches, bringing each competitor into action against all 17 of his foes at least once, will be contested over the 31 day stretch. All the afternoon sessions will get under way at 1 o'clock and the evening brackets at 8 o'clock.

Hoppe Gets Concession.

It may oe that Mr. Hoppe will not step up to the arena table for several days, pending his recovery from the attack of influenza which caused his collapse last Thursday night in the final block of his challenge match with Jake Schaefer. Tournament officials have agreed, however, to permit the champion to play several of his matches in close succession, in order to catch up with the rest of the field. He is not scheduled to play either today or tomorrow.

Hoppe is far from being the entire party. There are such gents around as Schaefer last year's runner-up to Hoppe's remarkable record of 20 victories in as many games. Jake for years dominated the balkline field, until he joined other veterans in the three cushion variety. And then there is Welker Cochran of San Francisco, the one time Iowan who learned his billiards in Chicago and who won the world title of 1933 on his first attempt, the only time the feat ever has been accomplished. Add to these the colorful Joe Chamaco of Mexico City; quiet Arthur Thurnblad of Kenosha, winner of the 1931 crown; Allen Hall of Chicago, three times runner-up; Jay Bozeman of Vallejo, Cal., a threat in any tournament; and the veterans Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia and Tiff Denton of Kansas City, and you have a field to give any billiard fan a show.

Rubin to Compete.

In addition to the above, the tournament also will have Arthur Rubin, who made a promising debut in last year's event, and three veterans who have been absent from world cue competition for a number of years—Len Kenney and Earl Lookabaugh of Chicago and Clarence Jackson of Detroit.

Five new faces in the big league battle also will be in evidence. They are Irving Crane of Livonia, N. Y., runner-up to Ralph Greenleaf for the world's pocket billiards title; Herb Peterson of St. Louis, son of the famed Charley; John Fitzpatrick of Los Angeles, who has been doing in many of the better cueists on the Pacific coast, and two Chicagoans—City Champion Joe Moriarty and Paul Lewin.

Kovacs Defeats Alloo for Dixie Tennis Crown

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 12 (AP).—Frankie Kovacs, of Oakland, Cal., defeated Eddie Alloo of Winter Park, Fla., 6-0, 6-3, 6-2, today to take the singles crown in the 17th annual Dixie tournament. Pauline Betz of Rollins college won the women's singles title when she beat Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke of Brookline, Mass., 6-4, 6-3. Don McNeill of Oklahoma City and Jack Kramer of Los Angeles teamed to win the doubles crown from Russell Bobbitt of Atlanta and Frank Guernsey of Orland, Fla., 6-1, 7-5, 6-2.

A Red Wing Wins Race for Bounding Puck

N. U. Quintet Invades Indiana Tonight; Chicago Tackles Ohio

Indiana university's impressive victory over Illinois Saturday night underscores again the Hoosier bid for the Big Ten basketball championship. The national collegiate champions of 1940, who scored two victories over Purdue, Big Ten winner, but placed second in the 1940 race, seem headed for the top.

For several years, however, the conference champions have failed to complete a 12 game program undefeated, and the caliber of conference basketball this year possibly precludes the exception. One victory, of course, may be scant basis for lavish praise, and, as the conference plays its first complete schedule of five games tonight, there are some who favor Ohio State to take the title it vacated in 1939. Incidentally, Indiana was second to the Buckeyes that season.

Menke Leads Scorers.

Ohio State's early victories over Michigan and Northwestern have been the more remarkable because of the dismal preseason record. Unless Chicago, which opens its conference season tonight at Ohio State, has improved tremendously, the Buckeyes should notch their third consecutive triumph.

Bill Menke's 24 points against Illinois start this Hoosier veteran toward his obvious goal, the conference scoring leadership. Menke also led Indiana in scoring in the nonconference schedule with 77 points. Despite Menke's exhibition—many of his shots were from under the backboard—Indiana's scoring strength is well distributed. This factor, as well as the speed of the quintet, makes Northwestern's task doubly difficult in Bloomington tonight.

The Wildcats lost their initial game, and their second of the season, to Ohio State Saturday night, 46 to 40. Never closer than three points in the second half, Northwestern couldn't keep its rally alive long enough to catch the fast Buckeyes. Not entirely unexpected, but disastrous to attacking power, was the shooting of the two Wildcat sophomores, Clarence Hasse and Russ Wendland. Each scored only one field goal.

No Wildcat Jinx.

Strangely enough, the Wildcats have a better record against the Hoosiers than against Ohio State. Last year Northwestern was one of three teams to whip Indiana and keep it from the Big Ten title. On the basis of this record, Northwestern conceivably might upset Indiana tonight.

With one victory (Purdue) and one defeat (Indiana), the Illini meet Michigan tonight in Champaign. Quite likely the Wolverines, who lost to Purdue Saturday, 41 to 40, in Lafayette, will be a better foe than the won and lost columns indicate. Michigan matched Purdue in field goals and could have tied in free throws except for the technical error by Grissen, who touched the restraining line as he successfully scored a penalty toss. The error canceled the throw.

Jim Mandler's height (he is only one inch shorter than Illinois' Art Mathisen) means the game tonight may be decided on performance under the back boards. At Purdue Mandler again demonstrated the handicap the Boilermakers have in recovering rebounds and attempting followup shots. Forrest Sprowl, veteran Purdue forward, played his second excellent game, altho Don Blanken, with eight free throws in 10 attempts and three field goals, led the Boilermaker scoring.

Badgers Trip Iowa.

Iowa's undefeated record went to pot in the Hawkeyes' opening tilt with Wisconsin, 49 to 35. Gene Englund, Badger center, regained shooting form with 18 points, eight field goals, and two free throws. Capt. Vic Siegel was the most effective of the Hawkeyes. Iowa now moves to Minnesota tonight and since the Gophers already hold a decision over Wisconsin, the answer seems to be a second conquest for Minnesota, which shares the conference leadership with Indiana and Ohio State.

Purdue travels to Wisconsin tonight completing the conference schedule. With only three games scheduled Saturday, the conference race comes to the annual hiatus occasioned by semester and term examinations.

HARRISON, HOGAN AND DODSON TIE IN OAKLAND OPEN

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 12 (AP).—The Oakland $5,000 Open Golf tournament ended in a triple tie today among E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Little Rock, Ark.; Leonard Dodson of Kansas City, Mo., and Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y. Each scored 276 for the 72 holes. They will meet in the 18 hole playoff tomorrow.

Hogan, last to finish, missed a three foot putt on the 18th green which would have given him the lead. Harrison had similar bad luck on the same hole, missing one approximately four feet long. Each chalked up par fives on this hole.

Hogan scored a two over par 72 for the Sequoyah course on his final round. Harrison, leader of the second and third rounds, carded a 73 and Dodson a par 70.

MOON MULLINS NAMED FOOTBALL AID AT FLORIDA

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 12 (AP).—Larry (Moon) Mullins, one of Notre Dame's greats, and Orville Dermody, former star at Loyola of Los Angeles, were named today to fill vacancies on the University of Florida football coaching staff, Dr. John J. Tigert, university president, announced.

Mullins was head coach at St. Ambrose college in Davenport, Ia., last season, producing an undefeated, unscored upon eleven in his first year.

While definite assignments were not announced, it was believed Mullins would take over the back field coaching position and that Dermody would handle the ends.

Mullins and Dermody were given two year contracts. Mullins was also made a professor of physical education and Dermody an assistant professor. Florida's head football coach is Tom Lieb, former Notre Dame line coach.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The largest crowd in hockey's history—19,386 paid—last night saw the Blackhawks administer a 2 to 1 licking to the able and heretofore very tough Detroit Red Wings.

The gathering which topped the former world record of 18,496 set in the Stadium in the Stanley cup game between the Hawks and the Toronto Maple Leafs on April 10, 1938, saw no expected murder or mayhem, not even a fight involving Wing Defenseman Giacomo Orlando or his lovable manager, Jack Adams, but the customers got their money's worth, plus, in hockey.

Orlando Turns Meek.

Orlando, whose attack on a spectator and other violence in the course of his buildup as the unwashed ogre of the blue lines and the last of hockey's bad men, was as meek as a pussy cat thruout, even after he had been plunked several times on the seat of his red drawers. In the first 30 seconds of play Giacomo drew his first penalty in four games since he went berserk here Jan. 1. But it was not for a violent offense—simply gave the customers a chance for their first hollering. Moreover, the young man was smoothly shaven and his neck glistened, it was that scrubbed.

A goal by Bob Carse, on assists by Joe Cooper and Johnny Chad in the second period tied the score. Bill Thoms drove home the winning counter with less than four minutes of the regular time to go—in 16:40 of the third period, to be exact. Bob Carse and Chad assisted on this one.

Ends Wings' Streak At Eight.

The victory brought to an end the Wings' string of eight contests without a defeat, and also terminated a run of four straight victories for the Wings over the Hawks this season. More important, it gave the Hawks a record of one tie and three straight triumphs since Rookie Goalie Sammy Lo Presti joined the team.

After Orlando had been put off in the first minute of play the Hawks attempted to execute a power play, but their technique left something to be desired. Some three minutes later, however, the Wings demonstrated how a power play should be developed and for a while thereafter it appeared the Hawks might be in line for their fifth straight spanking by Detroit. Mush March was locked up for slashing and the Wings promptly started bearing down. The Hawks stood off a couple of surges, but a half minute before March had served his term, Alex Motter, Syd Abel, and Carl Liscombe got possession of the puck, Abel and Liscombe passed backward and forward not far from their left boards until Motter got into scoring position. The rubber was slipped to him and Alex banged it home from about a dozen feet out.

Score as Wings are Short.

The Hawks' tying score in the second period, like the marker the Wings made in the first period, was accomplished while the opposition was a man short. Joe Fisher had been put off for slashing Cully Dahlstrom. The Hawks maneuvered in the Detroit defense zone until Chad got a chance to pass to Cooper, stationed on his right boards, 10 feet inside the blue line. Joe made a long pass toward the cage. Goalie Johnny Mowers dropped on the ice to save Cooper's long, sliding shot, whereupon Bob Carse, who had charged to the mouth of the cage, picked up the puck and lifted it over the sprawled goalie, a perfect stick manipulation. The time was 8:32 of the second period.

Later in the session Bill Carse was put off for holding, and Art Wiebe got a layoff for a similar offense. The Wings bore down furiously during the spans the Hawks were short of full force, but the Chicagoans fought hard and the period ended 1 to 1.

Thoms had plenty to do in the production of the victory goal. He was the center in a face-off near the Detroit cage and stopped the puck with his skates. He then shoved it into the mêlée precipitated by Chad and Bob Carse. Then he took the puck on a short pass from Chad and shot past Mowers for the payoff.

VIC RONCHETTI RETAINS TITLE IN ELGIN ICE MEET

Team Honors Captured by C. Y. O. Skaters.

Table of Points

C. Y. O.	460	Tilden S. C.	70
Northwest S. C.	400	Swift S. C.	20
Barrett A. C.	150	Unattached	20
Elgin S. C.	100	Aerie	10
Glen Ellyn A. A.	80	St. Louis	10

Vic Ronchetti, C. Y. O. color bearer, successfully defended his tristate championship yesterday in Lord's park, Elgin, to divide the leading honors with Elaine Bogda Gordon, winner of the senior women's championship. Vic and Elaine were winners of The Tribune's senior Silver Skates in 1937.

Ronchetti's and Mrs. Gordon's victories made the battle for team points between the C. Y. O. and Northwest S. C. a nip and tuck affair, but when the final tally was made the C. Y. O. had won its third meet of the season by 460 to 400 points.

Boosts Silver Skates.

The interest stirred up by yesterday's large crowd and the record entries, totaling more than 500, indicated the Silver Skates Derbies next Saturday and Sunday in Garfield park will be one of the greatest in Silver Skates' 24 year history. All of the skaters, including those from St. Louis, Mo.; Wisconsin, and downstate Illinois, will be back in Chicago for next Saturday and Sunday's Derbies.

Winners of titles yesterday, like Marvin Thompson, intermediate; Don Olsen, junior boys' champion; Virginia Mazzetti, juvenile girls' winner, and Leo Freisinger, who has won every national and North American title but never the senior Silver Skates, have filed entries in the 24th annual Silver Skates Derbies.

WARD AND DUBS MEET TONIGHT IN MARIGOLD FIGHT

A 10 round bout between Gene Ward, aggressive Chicago lightweight, and Harvey Dubs of Windsor, Ont., will be the high spot of tonight's show in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Dubs, who stopped Pete Ferrand, Eu Eullen, and Johnny Pleasant in earlier appearances in the Marigold arena, will seek to add Ward to his knockout string. He has a hard task confronting him inasmuch as Ward has extended such opposition as Floyd Hagen, who holds a knockout over Dubs.

Billy Seward, hard fighting 135 pound fighter from Ingomar, Mont., will try for his third straight knockout over Sammy Scully in a five round semi-windup against the Chicagoan. Scully's recklessness in the two previous meetings with Seward cost him possible victories. Mike Sopko, East Chicago middleweight, is paired with Bobby Berger; Jack Whittinghill, Bloomington 165 pounder, with Leif Erickson, and Richard Rigali, local bantamweight, with Ralph Balcom, in matches of four rounds.

Able Coleman, New York heavyweight wrestler, will meet Jack [Bad Boy] Brown in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, this evening. . . . Leo Rodak is in Providence, R. I., where he opposes Everett Rightmire in a 10 round fight tonight.

Pete Lello, accompanied by Izzy Kline, left yesterday for Hollywood, Cal., where he faces Jackie Wilson, former Golden Gloves flyweight title holder, in a lightweight match Friday. Manager Kline, who seconded Pat Comiskey in his losing battle with Lou Nova in New York last Friday, also will handle Buddy Baer in a 10 round contest against Eddie Blunt in Oakland Wednesday.

2 DRIVERS HURT IN CRASHES AT MIDGET RACES

Cowboy O'Rourke of Chicago and Tony Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill., were injured during the midget automobile races last night in the International amphitheater.

Bettenhausen suffered a fractured right arm and bruises when his car hit one of the bales of hay lining the inside of the track and overturned on being struck from behind by O'Rourke's mount. Tony was extricated from beneath his car and taken to the Evangelical hospital. O'Rourke escaped unscathed.

O'Rourke was injured later, during the 40 lap feature race, when his automobile also struck a bale of hay, bounced back to the track, was struck from behind by the auto of Tony Willman of Milwaukee and made a complete somersault. O'Rourke was pinned beneath his car and against the outside retaining wall, suffering severe back injuries and head bruises. He was taken to the Loretto hospital.

Wally Zale of Chicago won the feature race in 6:45, with Bob Muhlke of Kenilworth second, Teddy Duncan of Chicago third, Ray Richards of Highland Park fourth and Myron Fohr of Milwaukee fifth. The 15 lap handicap, a secondary feature, was taken by Richards.

Golden Gloves Dates Fixed; Entries Open

will be held in Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street. The number of these and the dates have not been determined. Novices and experienced boxers will be examined at the same time.

Novice Class Is Explained.

While no deadline has been set for closing entries the last opportunity for novice boxers must be just prior to the north side tournament.

Novice boxers are those who never have registered with the Central Association of the A. A. U., nor fought in class A of any other tournament, including Golden Gloves. Novice boxers who have won more than two bouts in novice competition also will be required to enter the open division of the Golden Gloves.

The purpose of the novice division is to provide fair competition for those boys who wish to try for open division titles later. The qualifiers may compete this year, tho, in the Coliseum if they wish. Novice boxers are limited to Chicago competition. They do not compete against boys from other cities, and novice boxers from out of town centers are not permitted to fight in the major tournament in Chicago.

It's World's Biggest Ring Meet.

Chicago's Tournament of Champions continues to be the largest amateur boxing tournament in the world. The European championships, which included 19 nations in 1937, and the National A. A. U. tournament, embrace more territory but have fewer contestants. Thirteen states will be directly represented in the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium. Forty-three cities in these states will send 344 boxers to Chicago. With Chicago's team, the total becomes 352.

While 13 states, from Ohio to Nebraska and Minnesota to Texas, are directly represented in Chicago, twice that number compete in these Golden Gloves centers. The field from all centers numbers some 25,000 boys.

Nashville, Tenn., for example, draws from Kentucky, Alabama, and Georgia as well as from seven subsidiary tournaments in Tennessee. Fort Worth, Tex., not only has organized the state into eight districts, but boxers come from New Mexico and Arizona. Kansas City has one contributing center in Colorado and several in Kansas, and Minneapolis draws from the Dakotas.

Slovaks Lose to Milwaukee, 3-1, in Soccer

BY OFFSIDE.

The last remaining Chicago team was eliminated from the National Amateur Soccer cup competition yesterday when the Falk Corporation of Milwaukee defeated the Slovak Athletic association, 3 to 1, in the fourth round of the series played in Sparta stadium.

The Falks came from behind to triumph over the Slovaks, who scored first after 30 minutes of the first half when Pete Matevich broke thru for a high shot from 20 yards out, the ball going into the back of the net out of reach of the goal keeper.

Injury Forces Orr Out.

The game was stopped frequently because of injuries. Hughie Orr of the Falks was forced out.

It was not until after 40 minutes of the second half that the Falks took the lead on Roster's high shot which Steve Reega headed into the net from 5 yards. Then the Falks swarmed all over the Slovaks. Steve Bordic rocketing a shot past Dick from a well placed ball by Johnny Orr to complete the scoring in the last minute.

Shipp's two baskets and another by Barle gave Oshkosh a 23 to 23 tie midway of the third quarter, but Ruh's one hand shot and two baskets by Dar Hutchins, former Bradley star, gave Hammond a 30 to 25 lead that was strengthened as the game wore on. Ruh and his former Southern California teammate, Ralph Vaughn, led Hammond's attack while Barle, with five baskets, was high for Oshkosh. Cowboy Edwards of Oshkosh, individual scoring champion for three successive seasons, was held to five points. Lineups:

SHIP SHORTAGE BOTTLENECK IN DEFENSE PLANS

Big Sale of Vessels Reduces Fleet.

New York, Jan. 12 [Special].—Serious bottlenecks in shipping definitely are threatening the nation's preparedness program. They are even presenting important curbs on the Roosevelt administration's highly controversial plans to mold American resources into an "arsenal" for Britain, because so many American ships already have been sold to Britain, and because shipbuilding facilities presently can meet only a fraction of projected needs.

This was the finding of an exhaustive survey of the American shipping and construction situation disclosed here today. This study indicated that the United States merchant marine, a key industry, is actually dwindling despite the intensive efforts of the administration to step up American tonnage needs while at the same time trying to meet British requirements made more urgent by German sinkings of British craft.

Serious Shortage Indicated.

Official anxiety was expressed in Washington that a serious shortage may develop in shipping. Worry on the same score has been expressed by British officials hopeful of increasing demands on American ship tonnage.

In the light of this expressed anxiety and the importance of the merchant marine a survey of the industry was made with the aid of H. M. Wick, assistant to J. Lewis Luckenbach, who is president of the American Bureau of Shipping.

The merchant marine, the survey showed, has a total of 1,251 ocean-going vessels of 2,000 gross tons or more, with an aggregate of 7,475,000 gross tons, and 437 Great Lakes vessels of similar size, totaling 2,341,275 gross tons. The grand total is 1,688 vessels of 9,816,275 gross tons.

These figures include all documented and registered ships of the merchant marine, whether privately owned or operated by the government, and whether laid up in idle status or in actual service on American trade routes. The figures are as of Jan. 1, 1941.

Cargo Ships Most Numerous.

The largest single group in the merchant marine is composed of cargo vessels, of which there is a total of 3,591,276 gross tons. Next are the tankers, with 2,640,033 tons. Bulk carriers, rank next, with 2,351,374 tons, all except 276,000 tons on the Great Lakes. There are 156 passenger liners registered in the United States, with an aggregate of 1,100,356 gross tons.

The great majority of United States cargo vessels fall within the 6,000 to 8,000 gross ton class, which has 537 vessels of 3,692,754 gross tons. The country has only 13 ships in the 15,000 to 25,000 ton class, and these have an aggregate tonnage of 268,979 gross.

The merchant marine is growing smaller because of the unprecedented transfers to foreign registry. During 1940 a total of 190 ships was sold abroad, a number far in excess of normal sales and foreign transfers. These ships, which do not include the countless small vessels such as tugs, trawlers, lighters, barges, yachts, and the like that have figured in transfers to British interests, were all 2,000 gross tons or more.

100 Go to Britain.

Their total size was 1,007,282 gross tons. A hundred of them went to Great Britain, representing at least 500,000 gross tons of shipping of ocean-going proportions. The average age of these vessels was 22 years.

Against these sales the country added to its merchant marine during the year only 53 ships of 2,000 gross tons or more, with a total of 44,703 gross tons. Six of these were passenger ships, 31 were cargo carriers, and 16 were tankers.

It is estimated only 75 ships will be added to the fleet in the coming year unless the administration in Washington manages to speed up production by means of intensified methods that cannot be foreseen by shipping men.

It will be nearly two years before all of these 50 ships can be completed and delivered to Britain, altho work on the new yards where they are to be fabricated is already well under way.

Building Is Slow Work.

The survey indicated even if the country embarks on the same frenzied program of high pressure shipbuilding that characterized the $3,000,000,000 construction program of the last war, it will be at least two years before indicated production can come from the ways.

In addition to the new ships there is the possibility the Roosevelt administration may take extra legal steps to increase merchant tonnage by the acquisition of foreign freighters that have been immobilized in ports here since the outbreak of the war.

There are 158 of these craft, according to figures of the treasury department.

Insists Supply of Aluminum Is Below Needs

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12 (AP).—Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] asserted today that the production of warplanes "has been seriously delayed" because of a shortage of aluminum which he attributed to a policy of "keep-supplies down in order to keep prices up."

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney.

[A spokesman for the Aluminum Company of America at its Pittsburgh offices declared that the price of aluminum in 1940 had been reduced from 20 to 17 cents a pound. He said the company had undertaken a two year, $150,000,000 expansion program because of defense needs.]

Declares Work Delayed.

"It is clear that the manufacture of American airplanes needed to fill our own and British orders, has been seriously delayed because parts manufacturers have been unable to get a sufficient amount of aluminum to fill their orders," the senator said.

O'Mahoney's announcement today was made in connection with calling the monopoly committee, which he heads, to meet Wednesday to consider a final report on investigation of Aluminum Company of America.

The senator said that the defense commission had been "compelled" to set up priority schedules which shut off aluminum supplies needed by civilians, altho the nation's potential capacity was such that no curtailment should have been necessary. He had been told, he said, that rural electrification projects had been forced to take inferior equipment because of inadequate aluminum supplies.

Asserts Product Is Controled.

"The Aluminum Company of America has enjoyed practically complete domination of the field in this country for almost 50 years thru control of plant capacity and raw material," O'Mahoney declared.

[Edward R. Stettinius Jr., defense commissioner, said recently there were ample supplies of aluminum. His statement followed an announcement by one aircraft plant that it would curtail operations because of inability to obtain aluminum. Stettinius said the plant later had announced shipments of aluminum would allow it to continue production.]

CONTINENTAL MOTORS.

About a year ago or so I was urged by a securities dealer in my home town to buy some Continental Motors stock. At that time I felt the stock was quite speculative. Now I see the company is doing much better and has been getting some defense orders. I am thinking about buying some of the stock. Will you please send me your latest report on the company? —W. H.

Answer: Continental Motors corporation, Muskegon, Mich., has received a decided impetus from the national defense program and the war. Its current backlog of more than $61,000,000 in unfilled orders includes substantial contracts for automotive, airplane, and tank engines and parts.

With sales sharply higher, the company's net income in the latest fiscal year was the largest since 1929. The earnings record in recent fiscal years ended Oct. 31 follows:

	Net sales.	Net income.	Earned per share.
1936	$ 5,848,610	*$642,000	*$0.26
1937	6,214,438	71,335	.03
1938	5,700,409	*548,287	*.23
1939	7,256,848	*215,165	*.08
1940	10,908,460	611,843	.20

*Loss.

The company has paid no dividends on its common stock since 1929. There are 3,000,000 common shares of $1 par value outstanding. No dividend can be declared unless the Reconstruction Finance corporation, to which the company owes about one million dollars, gives its consent.

Continental Motors manufactures gasoline, Diesel, and natural gas engines, and parts used in trucks, buses, agricultural and marine equipment, railroad cars, and airplanes. In response to the increasing demand for military aircraft engines the company has shifted its emphasis from engines of less than 75 horse power to units developing as much as 1,000 horse power.

TOBACCO INDUSTRY.

About how many tobacco manufacturers are there in this country? How much is their annual production worth? Do you have a list of the leading tobacco companies?—T. J.

Answer: The domestic tobacco industry comprises about 850 enterprises. The factory value of the total annual output of these manufacturers is about $1,275,000,000 and the retail value $1,780,000,000. Six large companies produce most of the cigarets sold in this country. A list of the principal tobacco manufacturers may be obtained by sending a stamped, addressed envelope to the Investors' Guide department.
